Sheffield gave Ridgway hits for three quarters and almost pulled off a major upset Friday, but the Elfers rallied in the final minutes of the game to secure a one-touchdown win.

The proposed racetrack in Erie can have many benefits, not only for that city, but also for the entire northwestern Pennsylvania area. Two proponents of the track tell their story on today's sports pages.

Eisenhower is meeting Forestville at 1:30 p.m. today, and it should be a decisive contest as both teams are nearly neck-and-neck in the Valley Conference.

De Gaulle To Exert Influence

ANKARA (AP) — Charles de Gaulle came to Turkey Friday for a five-day visit in which he is expected to try to exert French influence on this key nation in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

"Understanding Turkey's wish for independence and importance in a key area of the world," the French president told an airport crowd, "we are ready to bring our policy closer to Turkey's."

Officials estimated 100,000 persons lined the streets of the capital to see the towering French figure as he passed in a motorcade.

The 77-year-old French president is believed anxious to encourage the Turks along the road toward further relaxation of East-West tensions.

Recent developments in Turkey promise to provide fertile ground for this kind of effort, Turkish President Cevdet Sunay in his first speech for his visitor demonstrated the Turkish feeling.

He told De Gaulle Turkey "has always joined in completely with the Western Nations' efforts toward East-West détente."

Once one of Russia's fiercest traditional enemies, Turkey is undergoing a change of attitude, dramatized by visits of Soviet leaders and closer Turk-Soviet economic links.

Clifford said he wasn't trying to pick a political fight but he nevertheless tossed out new data on missiles, bombers and submarines which obviously were meant to challenge remarks by former Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

The Republican presidential candidate had accused the Democrats of leaving the nation with a "gravely serious security gap" which should be replaced by clear-cut superiority under a new administration.

"I was comforted when I came into the department to find the extent of the superiority which we had over the Soviets," Clifford responded at a Pentagon news conference. "I have continued in that direction."

Clifford said "the facts as we understand them to be today" are:

The United States leads the Soviets 1,054 to "approximately 900" in terms of land-based intercontinental ballistic missiles, by 656 to between 75 and 80 for the Soviets in submarine-launched nuclear missiles, and by 646 to Russia's 150 to 155 in long-range strategic bombers.

Finally, he said, in terms of deliverable nuclear weapons—"the ultimate strength, which to me is the final test"—the United States leads 4,206 to 1,200.

Clifford didn't say so but his figures reflected Soviet gains in virtually all areas during the past year.

As he reported them, the Soviet vital statistics of today compare this way with those of Oct. 1, 1967, as reported to Congress just before Robert S. McNamara left the Pentagon:

Land-based ICBMs 900 (720), submarine-launched ballistic missiles 75 to 80 (30), long-range bombers 150 to 155 (155), and

Negro Youths Protest Special Class Setup

ERIE, Pa. (AP) — About 200 Negro youths demonstrated in front of the city's public library Friday in protest of a special class set up by the school board for pupils branded as "troublemakers."

Police said a spokesman for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People said the teen-agers were affiliated with the organization's state convention.

The pupils told newsmen they were protesting the class because all the pupils in it were Negro. They said they couldn't believe all of the "troublemakers" in the school system were Negroes.

The school board said eight pupils have been taken out of their regular classes and placed in the special class.

Police said the demonstration was orderly.

Thieu Opposes VC Role in Peace Talks

SAIGON (AP) — President Nguyen Van Thieu was reported Friday to have refused to yield in his opposition to letting the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front have a separate role in peace talks.

This would set back prospects for an early breakthrough in U.S. efforts to get the preliminary peace talks in Paris moving forward.

Hanoi radio emphasized Friday that North Vietnam had not accepted any U.S. conditions in exchange for a halt to the bombing.

South Vietnamese sources who have access to official information said U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker has accepted Thieu's position as final and has told Washington that further efforts to persuade the president to change his mind are hopeless, at least for the present.

The U.S. mission declined to comment on this report.

The informants said Thieu was unbending on the subject of letting the front take part in peace negotiations. He met Friday with Bunker for nearly two hours. It was their seventh meeting in the past 10 days.

Thieu said as recently as last Tuesday that his government

While the question of a front role in negotiations had been reported as one sticking point in the series of seven Thieu-Bunker meetings most speculation had centered on the terms for a total suspension of the bombing as the crucial issue.

The informants said, however, that Thieu was in general agreement with the U.S. position that a bombing halt must be followed by reciprocal de-escalation by Hanoi.

They insisted the issue of representation for the Front was the main obstacle in Bunker's discussions with Thieu.

In what has generally been regarded as a peace gesture, the South Vietnamese government plans to release before the end of October 140 prisoners of war.

The first government announcement said all these were Viet Cong, but a government spokesman reported Friday that 40 of them are North Vietnamese soldiers. An official source said many of the 40 are disabled. Small groups of North Vietnamese prisoners have been freed before.

Johnson Introduces Grandson To Newest Family Member

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson introduced his toddler grandson Lyn to the new Johnson granddaughter on a second visit to Bethesda Naval Medical Center Friday.

"We're mighty happy," the President said, relating how little Lyn had waved to his new cousin through the glass doors of an improvised nursery in the hospital's presidential suite.

The Navy pediatrician, Dr. Melvin Museles, said everything was going beautifully for the 24-year-old mother, Mrs. Charles S. Robb, and her new-born first child.

In Vietnam, the absent father, Marine Capt. Robb, 29, happily confided that he and Lynda had already picked a name for the baby. But Lynda hadn't yet made it public from the hospital suite at Bethesda.

Telegrams and good wishes flowed in to Lynda and the Johnsons. A White House photographer already has taken pictures of the presidential granddaughter and Lt. Gen. Lewis Walt, assistant commandant of the Marine Corps, who is leaving Saturday for Vietnam, volunteered to take some of them to Capt. Robb.

President Johnson, meanwhile continued to act in a role of stand-in father. He made the announcement of the baby's birth early Friday, gave out cigars and candy, and then came back about nine hours later to see how things were going at the hospital.

He brought along 16-month-old grandson Patrick Lyndon Nugent, children under 12 aren't usually allowed to visit but the presidential grandson was an exception. The little blond boy in a sailor suit toddled along after the President. Johnson said he had "shown him his little cousin" and Lyn waved through the glass doors at the pink-faced baby with black hair.

Johnson said he found daughter Lynda "looking beautiful and feeling fine."

32 Perish in Flames As Northeastern Flight Crashes Into Mountain

HANOVER, N.H. (AP) — A Northeast Airlines plane on a flight from Boston to Lebanon, N.H., and Montpelier, Vt., crashed and burned in fog on Moose Mountain near Hanover Friday night. Reports from the scene indicated as many as 32 of the 42 persons aboard were killed.

A helicopter bearing medics and rescue personnel from Pease Air Force Base at Portsmouth, N.H., was at the scene to assist in rescue operations.

Mary Hitchcock Hospital reported one survivor there and two others were at the nearby home of the late Gen. Frank Merrill, leader of Merrill's Marauders in World War II. No information was available on their identities and condition.

Persons near the scene said the plane crashed about 60 feet below the mountaintop, in an area of heavy woods and rock ledge.

A number of those aboard were reportedly badly burned, but four were able to walk down the mountain.

By radio the helicopter reported the plane was still burning more than three hours after it crashed.

The Fairchild-Hiller FH227 propjet, flight 946, left Boston at 4:55 p.m., Northeast said. It was due at Lebanon at 5:38 p.m.

The airline said the last radio contact was about 6:10 p.m., but it did not indicate why the plane still was in the air a half hour after its scheduled arrival time.

The Weather Bureau at Boston said its Lebanon station reported overcast at 2,000 feet at the time of the crash. This would have left higher peaks in the area obscured.

At Dartmouth College, about 15 miles from the crash, fire engines, police cars and other vehicles directed headlights on the green in the center of the campus to provide a landing site for helicopters carrying injured.

The crash scene was seven miles northeast of Lebanon Airport and a mile and half north-east of a visual omni range marker, which is one of the airport landing guides.

Firemen and volunteers, some riding in jeeps, hauled lights up the mountain to illuminate the wreckage. Bulldozers were brought in to clear an evacuation road and to smooth a pad for helicopter landings.

State Takeover Hinted In NYC School Strike

NEW YORK (AP) — State Education Commissioner James E. Allen stepped back into the New York City teachers' strike Friday, in a possible prelude to a state takeover of the paralyzed 1.1-million-pupil public school system.

Albert Shanker, president of the striking AFL-CIO United Federation of Teachers immediately agreed to meet with Allen, concerning the dead-lock over the ouster of 79 white teachers from the Negro and Puerto Rican Ocean Hill-Brownsville experimental school district in Brooklyn.

he has been under pressure from various groups to fire the New York City Board of Education and assume temporary control over Ocean Hill. The latter is one of three experimental school districts set up in the city to test the theory of limited community control of schools.

Rockefeller's statement came at a tumultuous ground breaking ceremony for a Bronx school complex. When School Supt. Bernard E. Donovan was speaking about 100 striking teachers in the audience rose and turned their backs on him. The teachers also took up a cry made familiar by demonstrating police patrolmen: "Lindsay must go!"

Mayor John V. Lindsay said the crisis between Ocean Hill and the predominantly white 55,000-member UFT had "turned into a fearful battleground between races."

In the midst of efforts to settle a slowdown of 32,500 policemen and firemen, Lindsay asked Allen to re-enter the school strike.

The mayor did so after Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller had said: "The Board of Regents and the state education commissioner have held meetings and are ready to help when asked."

Allen failed in an earlier effort to achieve a settlement of the teachers' strike. Since then, work order by State Supreme Court Justice Saul S. Streit failed to halt the slowdown by 22,000 patrolmen and 10,500 firemen—just as similar court mandates failed to end the teachers' strike.

Wage negotiations broke down between the Patrolmen's Benevolent Association and Lindsay. As many as 3,600 patrolmen a day have been calling in sick during the slowdown, and the depletion in the ranks has led officials to schedule overtime for available patrolmen.

Small Game Season Opening Expected To Attract 750,000

HARRISBURG (AP) — An estimated 750,000 hunters will take to the fields and forests in Pennsylvania for the opening of general small game season Saturday with a warning to use extra caution.

"We're asking all hunters to wear clothing of bright, conspicuous colors, be extra sure of targets because, unfortunately, it's easy to mistake a human for an animal in heavy brush," the State Game Commission said.

The commission said the extra heavy foliage adds to the danger of mistaking humans for game.

Reports of two fatal hunting accidents in two days earlier this week "underscored the need for extreme safety precautions," a spokesman said.

Hunters will be aiming for male ringneck pheasants, cotton tail rabbits, wild turkey and bobwhite quail, as well as grouse and squirrels, which were in season beginning Oct. 12.

The commission was encouraging hunters to take squirrels — plentiful supply throughout the state.

In the northeastern section, the commission said, squirrels are "invading farmlands due to a shortage of natural food and hunters are encouraged to hunt these areas to help reduce damage."

In almost every section, foliage was reported heavy by the commission. One exception was the north central area where leaves were reported falling rapidly.

In the southeast and southwest, many cornfields are unharvested, adding another hazard to visibility, the commission warned.

"It's a most unusual fall," the commission said. "We haven't had the usual number of frosts and that's why there is still so much foliage. The recent rains have helped trees shed in some areas, though."

The commission warned hunters that the season does not open until 9 a. m. and the opening hour will be enforced. The season for all species except turkeys continues through Nov. 30. Turkey season closes Nov. 23 in the north central portion, and Nov. 16 in the remainder of the state.

State Mandate Spells Possible Tax Increase

Warren County Commissioners face the prospect of providing another major outlay of taxpayer's money when the 1969 budget is finally enacted.

Because of a change in the State Constitution approved during Constitutional revision convention held earlier this year, each county will be required to appoint a public defender.

The new office will be the first in Warren County and depends on whether the State Legislature enacts the enabling law as recommended by the convention.

The legislature will re-convene after the general election and the proposed law will receive attention at this time. The manner of the Public Defender and other details will be provided by the law legislation.

The present proposal, which is not final, would require the county commissioners to appoint the public defender whose salary, the number of his assistants plus clerks and their salaries, would be fixed by the salary board (the county commissioners and county treasurer).

The public defender would make appointments of his personnel in the same manner as the district attorney or any other row officer names his clerks and secretaries.

Effective date of this proposed legislation is January 1, 1969. If the measure is enacted to become effective on that date, as proposed by the convention, county commissioners will be required to make provisions for the new office in 1969 budgets. Under the fiscal plan adopted by the county, the 1969 budget will have to be approved on or before December 31 of this year.

The commissioners said if the proposal becomes law, the budget will have to be increased. To obtain the services of a qualified person for the role of public defender, the salary must be attractive enough to interest a trained attorney. They feel they will be required to pay the public defender at least the salary which is paid presently to the district attorney. Furthermore, provisions would have to be made in the budget for the public defender's assistants or clerks, which would require another outlay of taxes.

At the present time the county is required to pay the cost of court-appointed counsel. Amounts range from $50 for a minor criminal case to as much as $200 for a more serious crime.

If the plan goes into effect and the county is required to pay the bill, it probably will result in another slight tax increase.

Scholarship Death

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) —

A rejected suitor in a college love triangle was arrested Friday in the bomb-by-mail death of his rival, Daniel J. Ronec of Lorain, last July.

Orville E. Stifel II, was arrested on a secret federal grand jury indictment as he went to his job as a lab technician at the Proctor & Gamble Co. in Cincinnati.

He was charged with mailing the bomb with intent to kill, and appeared before U.S. District Court Judge David S. Porter who denied bond.

Federal agents said the 21-year-old Stifel was a former boyfriend of Cheryl Jones of Youngstown, Ronec's fiancée.

Ronec, 28, a teacher at Central Junior High School in Cleveland was killed July 8 when he opened a package containing a bomb at his Lorain home.

U.S. Atty. Bernard J. Stupinski and Asst. U.S. Atty. Robert S. Turoff said investigations revealed the college love triangle, involving Stifel, Ronec and Miss Jones with Stifel a rejected and a jealous suitor.

They said Stifel had been introduced to Miss Jones, 23, now a senior at Ohio State University, by mutual friends in 1965, while Stifel was attending Ohio University in Athens.

Stifel and Miss Jones dated for about a year until she met Ronec, who was then at Ohio State working on a master's degree. A month after she met Ronec, Miss Jones broke off the relationship with Stifel, agents said.

Ronec and Miss Jones planned to be married last August, but the wedding later was postponed until Dec. 14.

Stifel was charged after a search of his home produced a two-pound can of gunpowder, some black powder, a small quantity of red wire and copies of Cleveland and Columbus papers containing articles about Ronec's death.

Agents described the bomb as "greatly sophisticated" though made in such a way it could have been detonated "by anybody, even the mailman, if he had jiggled it the wrong way."

People who knew Stifel said he was a good science student at Colerain High School in the Cincinnati suburb of Groesbeck.

He entered Ohio University in 1964 but withdrew this year, completing work for a bachelor's degree in psychology by attending night school at the University of Cincinnati and Xavier University.

Sixth Person Arrested In Art Treasures Theft

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — A 22-year-old man surrendered Friday to the FBI and became the sixth person under arrest in the theft of art treasures worth more than $1.5 million.

Louis Mavrakts of Buffalo was charged with conspiring to transport stolen property across state lines.

"This whole thing has a definite Costa Nostra flavor which has been plaguing us for years," said State Police Capt. Henry F. Williams, who assisted in making the five arrests Thursday.

One of the five, Russell DeCicco, 38, of Buffalo, was free in bail after his arrest Oct. 15 in Plattsburgh, where State Police recovered a 300-year-old Rembrandt that was stolen in January from a Rochester museum.

On Aug. 21 the FBI said paintings and sculpture worth $1.5 million was stolen from the home of T. Edward Hanley, an oil millionaire, in Bradford, Pa. The paintings and two bronze sculptures were recovered Aug. 29. No arrests were made at the time.

Paintings valued at $50,000 were stolen Sept. 8 from the home of Buffalo banker Seymour H. Knox, one of the nation's foremost collectors of Modern art. They have not been recovered.

In addition to DeCicco, the FBI arrested his wife, Renee, 35, and Gregory Parness, 22, and charged them with conspiracy in the theft of art treasures in connection with the Hanley theft. They are all of Buffalo.

Parness was also charged with conspiracy in connection with the Know burglary together with Stanley Seneca, 21, also of Buffalo, and Frank D'Angelo, 25, of suburban Kenmore.

Police seized tear gas cartridges, walkie-talkie radios, pistols, burglary tools, and lists of police radio frequencies when the arrests were made in the suspects' homes.

Police and FBI scuba divers searched the Niagara River at the foot of Ferry Street on Buffalo's west side, today for additional guns they said they believed had been thrown into the water.

The Rembrandt, "Portrait of a Young Man," was stolen from the Eastman House in Rochester and its value was estimated at $250,000.

The recovered Hanley collection included a $600,000 canvas by Picasso and one by Cezanne valued at $450,000.

Nell J. Welch, agent in charge of the Buffalo FBI office, said the group had been operating out of Buffalo for about two years and further arrests are pending.

Williams said all of the thefts were interrelated and that state and local charges would be filed later.

Presidential Campaign Wrapup

HUMPHREY

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Hubert H. Humphrey accused Richard M. Nixon Friday of "playing politics with our national security." He denied his Republican opponent's statement that Democratic administrations permitted a "security gap" between U.S. and Soviet military power.

"In an effort to catch votes he is playing politics with our national security, undermining the confidence of our allies, encouraging a recklessness among our enemies and undermining our long and patient efforts to bring a rational end to the madness of the strategic arms race," said Humphrey.

He made the statement in reply to a Nixon radio broadcast Thursday night which pledged to close a "serious security gap" caused by misjudgment of Soviet intentions by the Kennedy and Johnson administrations.

The former vice president said the Democratic administration had failed to maintain real superiority in armaments, making it more difficult for the United States to negotiate with Russia on arms limitation and other matters.

The Nixon accusation—and Humphrey's counter accusation—appeared to be the hottest issue so far in the late stages of the presidential campaign. Nixon's assertions of a security gap recalled the late John F. Kennedy's claims in the 1960 campaign that the Republican Eisenhower-Nixon administration had permitted a missile gap.

Humphrey, who read his statement to newsmen, said that Nixon "has accused the Kennedy and Johnson administrations permitting a 'security gap' that could become a 'survival gap.'"

"There is no 'security gap,'" said Humphrey. "There will be no 'survival gap'—unless we follow Mr. Nixon's advice."

Humphrey said Nixon claimed that eight years ago the U.S. numerical advantage over Russian bombers was 30 per cent, but that now the Russians are 50 per cent ahead.

NIXON

NEW YORK (AP) — Republican presidential nominee Richard M. Nixon said Friday he has learned that President Johnson is "driving very hard" for agreement on a Vietnam bombing halt, and possibly a cease-fire in the immediate future.

Nixon issued a statement reporting he has been advised of a flurry of White House meetings in the last 36 hours dealing with the effort to move toward peace in Southeast Asia.

From that starting point, he moved on to report—and deny—that he called rumors and speculation that "this spurt of activity is a cynical, last-minute attempt by Johnson to salvage the candidacy" of Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, the Democratic presidential nominee.

"This I do not believe," Nixon said. He said Johnson has made it clear "he will not play politics" with this war.

Herbert G. Klein, Nixon's director of campaign communications, would not disclose the sources upon which Nixon based his comments.

He denied that Nixon's rejection of the idea that Johnson has political motives was an effort to plant that very idea. "We don't participate in that sort of thing," he said.

Rep. Melvin R. Laird, R-Wis., who has been traveling with Nixon, said he was among those who reported to the candidate that there was substance to the speculation about a new peace effort.

Laird, a member of the House Defense Appropriations subcommittee, said he checked the matter with Pentagon sources.

Klein said Nixon has not conferred directly with Johnson since Oct. 16. At that time, he shared in a conference call telephone briefing for the presidential candidates, and attended a New York dinner at which both Johnson and Humphrey also appeared.

WALLACE

HERSHEY, Pa. (AP) — George C. Wallace charged Friday night that some of the students who disrupt his presidential campaign rallies are draft dodgers. "Who use federal money to go to school and who in some instances fly the Viet Cong flag."

Despite the predominantly friendly crowds, the third-party candidate was heckled again by young protesters at Trenton, N.J., and at Hershey, Pa.

In the Pennsylvania chocolate-manufacturing center, the hecklers thrust their arms upward in a Fascist salute to symbolize their disagreement with the former Alabama governor.

One youth wore a white hood covering his face as a gesture of protest against the Ku Klux Klan.

Wallace told him: "I didn't know you had Ku Kluxers in Pennsylvania. I made the strongest speech against the Klan ever made in Alabama. I'm on your side there."

If elected president, he said, he would "take some of you students off the federal payroll," a reference to government loans available for college students.

It was then that he added, "some of you dodge the draft and use federal money to go to school on and fly the Viet Cong flag."

At Trenton, N.J., earlier, Wallace found a predominantly friendly audience, but, as always, the hecklers were there, too.

A group of several hundred young protesters made it difficult for many in the crowd of 4,000 in the Trenton Armory to hear the third-party candidate.

When the pro-Wallace part of the audience did cut loose with cheers, however, the hecklers themselves were drowned out.

Many of the shouting, foot-stomping demonstrators were from Trenton High School, which in recent months has encountered racial tensions and fist fights between Negro and white students. The hecklers in the armory crowd were about evenly divided between whites and Negroes.

Speculation Mounts About Major Spy Case Breaking

BONN, Germany (AP) —

New reports added fuel Friday to speculation about a major spy case in the wake of a wave of suicides or violent death involving three senior German officers and two government employees.

One was a statement by General Ahlers, deputy chief of command spokesman, that six Communist East German agents were pulled quickly out of West Germany early this month.

Ahlers told a news conference two of the six left because of disagreements among their East Berlin bosses and two others fled fearing betrayal after the arrest of an accomplice.

Ahlers gave no details, but the latter two were believed to have quit the country after the arrest of an employee in a nuclear research center at Karlsruhe earlier this month. He did not say why the other two left.

In another incident, the Defense Ministry reported fragments of an exploded U.S.-designed Hawk ground to air missile has been found on a public refuse heap in the Eifel Mountains. A ministry spokesman said Hawk missiles are not subject to secrecy but "it is not customary for such waste to be left around on rubbish dumps."

He added, however, that several Atlantic Alliance nations fire rockets on maneuver grounds in the region.

The possibility of espionage first arose with the disclosure that Rear Adm. Hermann Luedke, who retired as deputy chief of the logistic Treaty Organization Sept. 30, had microfilm of secret NATO documents.

He was found dead of a gunshot wound in an Eifel forest Oct. 8. Eduard Adorno, Defense Ministry state secretary, told Parliament investigators so far have found no connection between Luedke's mysterious death and the suicides of two other military officers and two civil service officials.

Government spokesmen have attributed the four suicides either to ill health or depression.

In addition, Gerhard Boehm, a Defense Ministry clerk, disappeared Monday, leaving behind a suicide note. Police are still looking for him. The government said he knew no military secrets.

Adorno told parliament that investigations in all the cases are continuing.

Ike's Granddaughter's

Engagement Announced

PHOENIXVILLE, Pa. (AP) — "We have been so busy in politics we just delayed announcing the engagement," said Mrs. John Eisenhower Friday in revealing that her daughter, Barbara Anne, would be married in three weeks to a South American insurance man.

The 19-year-old blonde granddaughter of former President Dwight D. Eisenhower happily had been telling friends she was going to beat her older brother to the altar—and when the news was published her mother quickly confirmed it.

Barbara Anne is going to marry Fernando Echavarría-Urbe, 35, of Bogota, Colombia, on Nov. 16 in what is scheduled to be a "strictly family-only ceremony."

"We kept putting off telling everybody because of the presidential election," said Mrs. Eisenhower.

County GOP Women Name Mrs. Sanford Council Head

Mrs. Gilbert Sanford of Youngsville was named president of Warren County Council of Republican Women Thursday night at a meeting held at local GOP headquarters.

Miss Sunny Lucia will serve as first vice president; Mrs.

Edward Ord, second vice president; Mrs. Harry Sarvis, recording secretary; Mrs. Elbert Mohr, corresponding secretary and Mrs. William Rice, treasurer.

Retiring president, Mrs. Samuel Bonavita, introduced the guest speaker, Frank Johnson, director, Warren Campus-Edinboro State University, who reviewed Richard M. Nixon's book "Six Crises," published in 1960 by Doubleday, Inc.

Johnson stated he was not an expert on Richard M. Nixon but interested in the man along with Winston Churchill and John F. Kennedy. He added the book reveals many things people did not know and indicated that Nixon was a very "bright individual."

The former vice president's first attempt at writing a book was accomplished with the help of a female associate (on the staff of Doubleday) but both Dwight Eisenhower and Mamie had thought Dick should write. John Kennedy echoed this sentiment at one point in Nixon's career.

Johnson noted the book was a tremendous task in mental discipline. Reviewed by the author was the subject of debates, which he first entered into while in school. Others followed, including a debate in McKeesport with JFK when both were junior legislators.

Other highlights from becoming representative from California to the 1960 campaign; the famous Alger Hiss case, responsible for Nixon's rise to prominence; his active role as vice president and ability in 1955 when he suffered his first heart attack to give the impression of continuity in government without the appearance of taking over.

"Six Crises" also dwells on the much-discussed kitchen debate with Nikita Khrushchev in 1959, when Nixon was dispatched by Eisenhower to the opening of the Moscow Exposition. The speaker said Dick Nixon, who had made a deep study of Nikita and the foibles of the Soviet Union, defended America well in spite of his delicate position.

The 1960 campaign and the debates, which Nixon agreed were his downfall, are discussed by the author. Referring to the fact that Nixon has refused to debate since that time, the speaker noted that Lyndon Johnson did not choose to debate Barry Goldwater.

Johnson concluded by stating he was no political expert but was following the current election with interest. It was his opinion, based on the book reviewed, that Nixon is an "extraordinary individual."

Scranton Says May Accept GOP Cabinet Appointment

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Former Gov. William W. Scranton hinted Friday he might accept a cabinet appointment in the Republican administration of Richard M. Nixon, if it is offered.

"I never said I would not accept an appointed position," Scranton told a news conference at a midcity hotel before addressing a luncheon meeting of the Philadelphia Committee of Lawyers for Nixon-Agnew.

Scranton frequently has said since he left the governor's office at the end of 1966 that he never will run for elective office again. He has been mentioned, however, for appointment as secretary of state should Nixon win the presidency next month.

Speculation on Scranton's prospects increased when Nixon sent the former governor on a fact-finding tour of Western Europe.

Scranton said he planned to campaign vigorously for Nixon until the polling booths open on Nov. 5.

There was prolonged applause at Friday's luncheon when Arlin M. Adams, chairman of Pennsylvania Citizens for Nixon-Agnew, urged Scranton to "return to public life where we really need you."

Scranton, in his speech, said that Americans had overestimated the effect of the Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia on the NATO alliance.

"Most of Western Europe feels pretty secure," the former governor said. "They like being under our umbrella. They don't think the Soviet Union will ever invade Western Europe."

Scranton said his talks with European leaders had convinced him "the unpredictability of Soviet behavior" is one of the world's greatest problems.

Scranton said the nuclear non-proliferation treaty now before the Senate should not be ratified immediately.

"Everyone knows that sooner or later it will be ratified," he said. "I do not think it ought to be ratified immediately because nobody yet has intelligence as to what is going on in the Kremlin."

This is Nixon's position on the treaty issue.

Scranton called the Middle East "the most critical area in the world at this time."

"The ambition of the Soviets has built up potential power in some Arab countries greater than was there before the last crisis," Scranton said.

Priest Quits in Protest Against Church Authority

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—A high-ranking Roman Catholic priest, saying he could no longer endure conditions in the giant San Antonio Archdiocese, announced Friday he has resigned as a part of his and 50 other priests' demand that their archbishop give up his post.

The Rev. John Paul Klein, 29, vice chancellor of the archdiocese, said a major reason he decided to resign was the "pyramid structure of church authority (which) has little hope of substantial reform."

The priest submitted his resignation Thursday—the day he and 50 other priests announced they have asked Pope Paul VI for the resignation of Archbishop Robert E. Lucey.

The archbishop, 73, is 78 in March and his age was cited as one of several reasons for asking him to step down as spiritual leader of a half million Roman Catholics. There are 448 priests under Archbishop Lucey.

The archbishop had not commented late Friday. Bishop Stephen A. Leven, auxiliary bishop, saying he did not speak for the archbishop, only said, "I am deeply grieved at their (the 51's) anguish of spirit," and said some church members are "bewildered, confused."

The priests charged Archbishop Lucey with a "long line of vindictive and repressive transfers of clergy."

The priests' actions caused little stir at the Vatican.

Youths Charged With Larceny

Two youths, one on probation and the other just released from probation, were apprehended Thursday by borough police Sgt. Edward Peterson. The pair, one age 16 and one 15, was charged with larceny.

The arrest stemmed from a complaint received Monday from Dan's Chevrolet that parts had been removed from two cars in their used car lot on Pennsylvania ave. E. The parts were valued at $52.85 and had been used on one of the youth's car.

Both were referred to juvenile authorities.

ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS:
1. I want to develop new opportunities for federal, state and local action to encourage individual initiative and promote the involvement of the private sector in a partnership to solve the problems of the cities.

2. I am seriously concerned by the Johnson Administration's handling of foreign affairs. I am opposed to the Administration's lack of candor with the American people particularly as related to the war in Vietnam. More emphasis should be put on pacification and de-Americanizing the war.

Subcommittee on Employment; MANPOWER and Poverty; member Foreign Relations Committee.

ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS:
1. In order to end lawlessness in our cities and substitute respect for law and order, we must provide workable solutions to the problems of the poor. I believe the key to the solution is to provide meaningful jobs for the poor. The Emergency Employment Bill which I have introduced would afford training and employment for 2,400,000 of the hard core unemployed.

2. My recent visit to Vietnam has confirmed my view that neither military victory nor unilateral withdrawal is a feasible solution. Instead we should deescalate the conflict and seize the diplomatic initiative to achieve an honorable peace through negotiations. Specifically, we should: (1) Stop bombing North Vietnam; (2) Stop "search and destroy" operations; and (3) Promote political negotiations between Saigon and the Viet Cong.

ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS:

1. I do not believe the problems of the city can be solved by the bureaucrats in Washington. Return the problem to states and cities. Return a percentage of federal income tax collected from the city residents back to the cities. Use all the force necessary to enforce law and order. Make a 10-year jail sentence mandatory for all convicted rioters, looters, rapists, arsonists.

2. The problems of Asia can only be solved by the people of Asia. Help those who want to fight for their freedom with food and war material (NEVER, NEVER with American soldiers). Hammer the Communist enemy with withholding trade from aggressors. Serve notice on the Viet Cong that unless substantial peace progress was made in Paris, U. S. would turn war over to Chiefs of Staff with instructions to win. If Chiefs of Staff say "no," bring our boys back home!

Training and Experience: Activity in Socialist movement since 1951 as instructor and candidate.

ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS:

1. The urban problems of crowding, pollution and inadequate social services result from capitalism, a system where nothing is done except for a profit and without proper regard for the human consequences. Poverty, racism and crime flourish in a system where the vast majority are not permitted to own and operate the industries in their own interests. The solution lies not in federal reforms but in the establishing of Socialism where the people will design cities according to their needs and production will be carried on for use rather than profit.

2. By establishing genuine Socialism, we will eliminate the economic compulsion for foreign markets, wealth and spheres of influence which is inherent in capitalism. American Socialism will set an example of industrial democracy and cooperation inevitably resulting in the overthrow of class rule not only in the other capitalist nations but in the bureaucratic despotisms of Soviet Russia and her satellites as well.

ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS:

1. IMMEDIATELY, the right of black people to determine the conditions of their lives in the ghettos. I am against ghettos, but until they are eliminated, only black people know how to solve the special problems spawned by this condition. -- Unemployment insurance for all young people unemployed. -- LONG RANGE, a massive Fed. program to replan and rebuild the cities, in accord with social needs, as determined by peoples' organizations (unions, black peoples' organizations, etc.) not according to views of corporate and or real estate interests. Finance by re-allocating all war funds toward this end.

2. Immediate withdrawal of all troops; abandonment of all bases in Asia. Withdrawal of 7th fleet from Asian waters. Asians must be allowed to settle their own affairs. U. S. Troops are supporting Quisling govts., having no popular support, incurring hatred of population. Social revolution proceeding in Asia, if interfered with, as U. S. policy now acts toward, can only result in greater destruction and loss of life, and threaten unleashing of World War 3. Proposals of Parties for anything LESS than immediate withdrawal mean, practically, the masked continuation of this criminal and immoral policy of genocide, begun by Eisenhower, continued by Kennedy and Johnson, and escalation of destruction of Amer. youth.

QUESTIONS

1. WHAT CHANGES, IF ANY, WOULD YOU ADVOCATE IN FEDERAL POLICIES TO SOLVE THE PROBLEMS OF THE CITIES?

2. WHAT CHANGES, IF ANY, WOULD YOU ADVOCATE IN U. S. POLICY TOWARD SOUTHEAST ASIA?

ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS: 1. First of all there must be re-established respect for law and order, through strengthening of police forces, proper punishment for the guilty, and a departure from the advocacy of a permissive society by our Federal government. Tax credits to employers for training the unskilled worker should be provided. Needy young people should have aid in completing high school as well as existing higher education scholarship aid. The Percy plan for housing the poor through self-help acquisition should be the method for home ownership. A Federal government that speaks honestly and openly to the people would also help.

2. As I write this (October 15, 1968), delicate peace negotiations are under way in Paris with North Vietnam. Responsible Congressmen have been reluctant to make any pronouncements which would in any way jeopardize these meetings. It has been aptly said that the key to peace in Vietnam is to be found in Russia and Red China. They are prolonging this war through furnishing huge supplies to North Vietnam. I would favor a bombing pause if there was an agreement for equally decisive steps by North Vietnam. I would strongly urge the re-assembling of the Geneva Conference, which conference divided Vietnam in the first place.

Raised in the city and very well acquainted with urban life and problems, Mr. Cleeton has also lived and worked on a farm. As an employment consultant to the U.S. Government in Huntingdon and Blair Counties, Mr. Cleeton has experience in job skill surveys and manpower training.

ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS: 1. Problems of the cities: Give Serious Attention to Kerner Report.

The Report of the President's Advisory Commission on Civil Disorders is one of the best ever presented to any recent administration. The problems and causes are precisely described and reconfirm many facts unearthed as early as 1890 in such classic studies as Jacob Rits' "How the Other Half Lives." Some of the recommendations have already received attention in recent legislation. Wider acceptance of the report will help establish and fund new programs.

Careless talk about the private sector assuming principle responsibility for the recovery of the cities must be considered in light of the fact that the private sector has been in principle control of the cities for the past 200 years. Serious private plans should be considered.

Human relations techniques and local neighborhood incentive decisions must be integrated into urban planning and renewal programs. Health and educational services should have priority. Housing is third in priority.

2. Southeast Asia: End War and Seek Peaceful Solutions to Problems.

The Vietnam war and many of our difficulties in Southeast Asia are the consequences of both mis-perceptions and mistrust of the integrity of other peoples. Solving the present crisis may prepare the way for a whole new set of principles for international relations and harmony.

A complete halt in the bombing and tactical and destroy missions accompanied by a de-escalation of hostilities on both sides could set the stage for negotiations and a stabilization of the area. No one dare expect to untangle the very complicated problems in a few short months, but the sooner we get started the sooner the fundamental problems can be solved. It will require patience and diplomacy and a new kind of international trust leading to global peace.

ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS: Problems in the cities: The Republican and Democratic national parties after each riot but neither have taken definite steps to assure that domestic tranquility promised in the preamble of the constitution. In recent years a startling number of decisions of the United States Supreme court dealing with criminal law appear to be weighed lopsidedly in favor of the criminal elements in our society. This places an unnecessary and unfair burden on this nation's law enforcement officers. We desperately need laws which will reverse this recent trend. If this domestic tranquility is to be restored to our cities it will only come through the strong arm of the law.

Problems in South East Asia: Neither the Republicans nor Democrats have offered a win policy in Vietnam but only more of the same. This war has already lasted longer than World War II. We must be doing something wrong. We need to take these two basic steps to assure victory in Vietnam: 1. Assure the enemy no military sanctuaries whatsoever. The government has miles of aerial photography showing craters in the jungles. Are these our best targets? Let's place the burden on our enemy by giving him one blanket warning that all military targets in the north will be subject to attack regardless of location.

2. Closing of North Vietnam naval ports through mining and air attacks.

Let us remember that the only way to accomplish peace is through an absolute victory.

Black Panther Leader Newton Predicts Violence

WASHINGTON (AP) — Black Panther leader Huey P. Newton predicts that his movement will achieve sufficient power to "oppose the whole institution outline and even go to war if necessary."

"I think there will be bloodshed and there will be struggle," Newton said in a recorded interview played back today before President Johnson's violence commission.

Newton is a cofounder and carried the title of minister of defense in the militant Black Panther group.

The interview was recorded Aug. 12 in a cell of the Alameda County Jail, during Newton's trial on a murder charge in the slaying of an Oakland, Calif., policeman. Convicted on a manslaughter charge, Newton was sentenced to a prison term of 2 to 15 years.

Newton's lawyer, Charles Garry, was present during the interview conducted by Jerome Skolnick of the violence commission staff.

Newton said he viewed the trial as "a springboard that mobilizes the community." And the outcome, he said, "is less important to me than the other things... how the community is responding and what is acting."

Training and Experience: Obviously there must be supplementary qualifications, other than one's intent in justifying one's candidacy. Certainly one must view two years association with a legislator, such as the former Rep. Thomas J. Donnelly, a definite asset. This experience has enabled me to become properly oriented with the procedure in conducting legislative business. Likewise, my two years affiliation as an advisor to a legislator gave me valuable experience in examining, discussing, and resolving legislative issues of public concern.

Employment with the State Legislature provided me with an opportunity to become personally acquainted with virtually all state agencies and their respective directors or commissioners. As a potential liaison representative of my legislative district, it is important to be acquainted with these agencies for local consideration. My established and present working relations with the Fish and Game Commission through the Warren County Council of Sportsmen's Clubs will be most beneficial in pursuing an active and constructive program for area and statewide sportsmen.

More significantly, employment with the legislature also provided me with an additional opportunity to know most members of the House and Senate. I was especially familiar with the members of the following committees: Fish and Game Commission, Conservation and Recreation and Tourism. These committees are of particular interest to Warren and Forest counties.

This comprehensive knowledge as well as my determination to represent my legislative district and the Commonwealth with sincerity and determination surely qualifies my candidacy. ANSWER TO QUESTION: The second issue of considerable importance will pertain to the educators of the Commonwealth. Salary increases and other related issues will be demanded of the legislators.

"And instead of having the Democratic Party, the Republican Party, the Wallace party... we will muster enough power to abolish all of these others," he said.

350 Railroad Workers Begin Sitdown

HORNELL, N.Y. (AP) — More than 350 Erie Lackawanna Railroad shop workers, at odds with their employer over repair-work jobs, failed to perform their task Friday for the second consecutive day.

There were hints their sitdown might affect the carrier's operation elsewhere.

The sitdown began Thursday when the AFL-CIO International Union of Electrical Workers balked at the idea of a recommendation that so-called dead work and so-called running repairs be combined. The dead work is on idle locomotives brought to this Southwestern New York city for repairs.

Other shop crafts joined in the work stoppage.

An electrical workers' union spokesman said the recommendation had been made by a company employee by the Erie Lackawanna. Combining the work, he said, would be in violation of the union-management contract.

In Cleveland, Ohio, a railroad spokesman said there would be no contract violation.

The sitdown did not affect train operations here but it was reported they might in and out of Hoboken, N.J.

GOP Candidate Refutes Charge

HARRISBURG (AP) — Frank J. Pasquerella, Republican candidate for state treasurer, Friday took issue with a charge by the Democratic incumbent over whether Pasquerella does business with the state.

State Treasurer Thomas Z. Minehart, who also is Democratic state chairman, contended in a speech Thursday night that Pasquerella has contracts with the state and would be guilty of a conflict of interest if elected.

Minehart referred to two Johnstown-based companies which he said have five-year leases with the state.

Pasquerella said that Crown Construction Co. of Johnstown has two leases with the Common wealth for liquor stores.

"This is not contract work by any definition," Pasquerella said. "These leases are proper and they were investigated and approved by the present treasurer... and by the present auditor general, who is also a Democrat."

Pasquerella also denied a charge by Minehart that Pasquerella's firm is negotiating an additional lease with the state.

Clark and Schweiker Address NAACP on White, Black Racism

ERIE, Pa. (AP) — U.S. Sen. Joseph Clark and U.S. Rep. Richard Schweiker agreed Friday that black and white racism should be stopped.

Answering questions before the state convention of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, the two candidates for the U.S. Senate were asked how they stood on white racism.

There is too much of it, answered Clark, and he pointed to the third party presidential candidacy of George Wallace as proof. He said he had spent his entire political life against white bigotry. But the Democratic lawmaker went on:

"One more thing you may not like, I'd like to see black racism tempered, too."

Schweiker, the Republican candidate for Clark's seat, said he looked at white racism as a form of extremism.

"And extremism, regardless of color, is hurting us," he said.

Both were asked how many Negroes were on their staffs. Schweiker said he had two out of total 12. Clark said he has eight or ten, but he didn't keep a precise count.

"I must add, in fairness, that my staff is much larger than Mr. Schweiker's," Clark said.

The question and answer session, which came after the candidates delivered prepared remarks, was cut to five minutes.

Striking Steel Workers Accept New Contract

LATROBE, Pa. (AP) — Workers at Latrobe Steel Co. voted Friday to accept a new three-year contract offer and end a 52-day strike that idled 1,500 workers.

Management said it hoped to get production started again by Sunday.

The vote at Local 1537 of the United Steelworkers was 588-281.

Union officials declined to reveal the package terms, but one said it was similar to the basic steel settlement reached in late July. That amounted to a 6 per cent increase in wages and fringe benefits.

Another union man said the big drawback to settlement had been local issues, especially punishment dealt to some men involved in a wildcat strike. He said he didn't get a clear picture of which issues were cleared up when the strike-ending was held.

Women's Club District Officer Visitation Set

Youngsville Business and Professional Women's Club will round out observance of National Business Women's Week at their regular monthly meeting on Monday, by receiving the official visit of a District officer. Ruth David, District Treasurer, a member of the Bradford club, will attend and will present a program of slide pictures and reminiscences of a recent trip to Europe.

Official observer for the visit will be Ruth Weinheimer of Erie. The club will also entertain its September and October Girls of the Month—two outstanding Seniors of Youngsville High School. Class President Nancy Clark was the September choice, and Sonna Chapman, Homecoming Queen and cheerleaders' captain, is the October selection. The mothers of the girls will also be honored guests.

The Youngsville BPW was itself honored this week in a special downtown window display arranged by the Youngsville Public Library for National Business Women's Week. The display, which featured books from the Library, about distinguished women, and a sheaf of red roses (the red rose is the BPW emblem) was a tribute to the club as a longtime sponsor and benefactor of the Library. Members of the BPW were largely responsible for starting the Library more than thirty years ago and the club annually supports it financially.

Holiday Season Books Now Available at Public Library

Several dozen books of all kinds for all age levels, appropriate for the forthcoming Halloween, Thanksgiving and Christmas holiday seasons, are now available at the Youngsville Public Library. Part of the Warren County Library collection, they include seasonal folk and fairy tales, song and carol books, favorite novels and cookbooks.

FRIDAY'S OLYMPICS

Czech Gymnast Wins 4 Medals

By TED SMITS
Associated Press Sports Editor
MEXICO CITY (AP) — Vera Caslavskaya of Czechoslovakia wrapped up a brilliant night by becoming the first person to win four gold medals at the Olympics after Pokey Watson and Claudia Kolb added two more swimming golds to the already bulging U.S. collection.
Miss Caslavskaya, who planned to be married Saturday, won the women's all-around title Wednesday night and then won three of the other four individual titles Friday night. She captured the vault horse and the uneven parallel bars, finished second in the balanced beam and then came back with a first place tie in the floor exercises.
Miss Watson, who had been kept out of swimming competition for six months by mononucleosis earlier this year, won the women's 200-meter backstroke in Olympic record time of 2:24.8.
Then, after Roland Matthes of East Germany edged Americans Mitchell Ivey of Santa Clara, Calif., and Jack Horsley of Seattle, Wash., in the men's 200-meter backstroke, Miss Kolbs grabbed the women's 400-meter medley.
That gave U.S. swimmers and divers 20 gold medals in 29 events, four more than they won in the 1964 Games. There are, however, 10 swimming events this year that weren't on the Tokyo program.
Over all, the U.S. gold total went to 39 with the grand medal total shooting to 94.
The three gold medals for Miss Caslavskaya Friday night enabled her to surpass her 1964 output of three gold medals, the vault horse and the balanced beam.
This time the only event she didn't win was the beam, finishing second to Natalia Kuchinskaya of Russia.
When Miss Caslavskaya received a 9.85 score for her balanced beam performance, it appeared she could not be overtaken. But the Russian girl also came up with a 9.85, which gave her a composite score of 19.650 to 19.575 for Vera.
However, the Czech bounced back in the final event, the floor exercise, and won her fourth gold after tying with Larissa Petrik of Russia.
Over at the pool, Miss Watson, a freshman at UCLA, waged a close duel with Elaine Tanner of Canada for the first 150 meters of the women's backstroke but then applied the pressure in the last 50 meters.
She finished two meters ahead of the Canadian, who also was second in the 100-meter backstroke. Kaye Hall of Tacoma, Wash., added a bronze medal to the two golds she won in the other backstroke race and the 400 meter medley relay.
Miss Tanner was clocked in 2:27.4 and Miss Hall in 2:28.9.
It was a great show by Pokey, who was competing in the backstroke for the first time in international competition.
"This victory can be called an accident," she said after winning the gold medal. "I had been a freestyle swimmer until last summer, but I thought I was getting in a rut so I decided to try the backstroke."
Miss Kolb, Santa Clara ace who had won the 200-meter medley, had an easy time in taking the 400-meter medley, finishing 20 meters ahead of Lynn Vidali, a 16-year-old San Francisco school girl.
Claudia was clocked in 5:08.5, off her world record of 5:04.7 but under the Olympic mark of 5:17.2. Miss Vidali was timed in 5:22 with East Germany's Sabine Steinbach third in 5:25.3.

Sue Pedersen of Sacramento, Calif., owner of three medals, fourth in 5:25.8.
The men's backstroke race was one of the closest of the swimming competition with Ivey and Horsley battling Matthes until the final 25 meters when the German pulled away and won by 1 1/2 meters.
Ivey was timed in 2:10.6 and Horsley in 2:10.9. Gary Hall of Garden Grove, Calif., who finished second in the 400-meter medley, was fourth in this race in 2:12.6.
Mike Burton, gold medalist in the 400-meter freestyle, and two other Americans qualified for Saturday's final of the 1,500-meter freestyle.
Burton, from Carmichael, Calif., won his heat in 17:27.2, well off his world record of 16:08.5. John Nelson of Pompano Beach, Fla., took his heat in 17:36.0, and John Kinsella of Oak Brook, Ill., was second to Gregory Brough of Australia in 17:22.7.
Brough posted the fastest qualifying time, 17:17.1.
In another water sport, canoeing, Russia and Hungary each picked up two medals. West Germany, Norway and Rumania took the others in the seven event finals.
Mrs. Marcia Smoke of Buchanan, Mich., turned in the best U.S. showing in canoeing, finishing fourth in women's kayak singles.

Then, after Roland Matthes of East Germany edged Americans Mitchell Ivey of Santa Clara, Calif., and Jack Horsley of Seattle, Wash., in the men's 200-meter backstroke, Miss Kolbs grabbed the women's 400-meter medley.

REMATCH WITH YUGOSLAVS

U.S. Captures Olympic Basketball

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Spencer Haywood and Jo Jo White exploded for 26 points in the space of 12 minutes at the start of the second half Friday night to break open a hard fought battle and give the United States its seventh straight Olympic basketball championship with a 65-50 victory over Yugoslavia.
In an earlier game, the towering Soviet Union, the pre tournament favorite, and upset loser to Yugoslavia in the semifinals, took the bronze medal by beating Brazil 70 to 53.
The underdog Yugoslavs started the final game before an overflow crowd of 25,000 at the Sports Palace by grabbing an early lead over the Yanks.
Leading through the early stages, at one time 7-4 and another 11-0, the Yugoslavs went to the halftime intermission trailing only 32-29.
Then the 6 foot 8 Haywood, a remarkable 19-year-old from Detroit, who had been feared lost to the team because of an attack of diarrhea, joined White, from St. Louis and Kansas University, in a wild and spirited scoring attack.

Haywood and White broke the game open with four quick field goals in the first five minutes of the second half.
Haywood scored on three stuff shots and White took the ball on an errant Yugoslav pass, raced down the floor alone and made an easy layup.
The crowd, which had been cheering wildly for the underdog Yugoslavs in the first half, suddenly started rooting for the red hot Americans. As the American flags appeared in the stands and one large sign said, "Sock it to 'em, Yanks."
After five minutes of the second half the United States led 42-29. Haywood had 12 points. Meanwhile, the Americans held a 1-0 Yugoslav scoreless through the first five minutes of the second half.

Through the first 11 minutes of the second half, the United States scored 26 points, 18 of them by Haywood. White pitched in eight points in the same span for a total of 14 for the game thus far.
Meanwhile, the American defense was so tight that the Yugoslavs were limited to two goals from the field, both of them by Dragutin Cermak. He scored his team's first goal in the second half at the 7:51 mark with a layup.
With seven minutes to play the sensational Haywood was removed from the game for a rest. The Mexicans gave him a tremendous ovation.
Win when a jab counts as much as a knockdown and a man can get a decision by running the 100 yard dash backwards.
Pappy's reference was to the controversial, wildly disputed decision given Britain's Christopher Finnegan Thursday over middleweight Alfred Jones of Detroit. Finnegan ran like a scared rabbit for three rounds, was decked twice and was warned four times and cautioned three times by the referee.
"I thought the fans were going to tear up the joint," Pappy said.
"They started yelling and throwing some of those 20 centavo pieces. Some of them even grabbed chairs."
"I was getting a little scared. I got up in the middle of the ring, held my hands over my head and begged them to settle down. I thought we were in for one of those Latin American riots."

Michigan State Coach Duffy Daugherty, who rarely misses a trick, will employ a sophomore quarterback and a little psychology when his Spartans tackle the fifth-ranked Notre Dame in one of the key games on Saturday's major college football program.
Daugherty has tapped Bill Triplett to start against the Irish — and the Spartans' music director will play his baton and the band will play "Impossible Dream" at halftime of the nationally televised game. It will be telecast by ABC starting at 1:30 p.m. EDT.
That popular tune might be even more fitting at Champaign, Ill., and Ames, Iowa, where Illinois and Iowa State face even more imposing tasks than Michigan State.
Illinois, winless and a 58-8 loser to Notre Dame last week, takes on unbeaten, second-ranked Ohio State. In losing all five games so far, the Illini have allowed 194 points while scoring just 39.
Iowa State, 3-3 and coming off a 42-7 loss to Oklahoma, meets unbeaten third-ranked Kansas, winner of five and averaging 300 yards rushing, 130.6 passing and 45 points a game. The Jayhawks have allowed only 61 points.
In addition, both Ohio State and Kansas will be trying to make the most of an opportunity to close the gap on Southern California in The Associated Press' major college poll. The Trojans are not scheduled this week.
While Ohio State and Kansas face what appear to be easy tests, fourth-ranked Penn State, 4-0, takes on Boston College in what could turn out to be a stiff battle.
Sixth-ranked Tennessee is idle, but the remainder of the Top Ten is in action. No. 7 Purdue meets Iowa. No. 8 Georgia takes on Kentucky. No. 9 Miami of Florida faces Auburn and No. 10 Syracuse tackles No. 11 California.

Tiger Wins Fight

NEW YORK (AP) — Aging Dick Tiger survived two early knockdowns and then came back to win a two-man war that was billed as a 10-round light heavyweight fight with Frank DePaulo Friday night.
Tiger, 33, and coming off a 42-7 loss to Oklahoma, meets unbeaten third-ranked Kansas, winner of five and averaging 300 yards rushing, 130.6 passing and 45 points a game. The Jayhawks have allowed only 61 points.

Valley Rival Forestville Meets Eisenhower Today

The Eisenhower Knights will have their work cut out for them this afternoon as they host the Forestville Hornets at 1:30. Ike remains ahead of the Hornets by a small step in the Valley Conference with the Blue and Gold holding a 1-2-1 record and the Gold and Black Hornets carrying a 1-3 slate.
As far as experience goes the Knights hold the upper hand with fifteen veterans on the squad while the Hornets welcomed only five players back. Among the Gold and Black returnees will be tackle and middle linebacker Don Laemmerhirt.
Laemmerhirt stands 6-feet tall and weighs 170-pounds. Although Hornet coach Tom Herring listed him as one of the strong points on the team earlier in the season, Laemmerhirt will only be playing offense this week as he nurses an injury.
Two of the lettermen included right and left guards, Neil Watterman and Gary Belote, respectively. Coach Herring lists the defensive unit as pretty strong and advocates a fair running game. The Hornets run out of a split offense.
This will be the first meeting for both the Ike and Forestville coaches. The Knights Tom Firth and The Hornets Herring took over the helm at their respective schools only this season.
Last season the Hornets failed to win a game in the Valley league finishing with an 0-8 slate. However, the Gold and Black are a little stronger this season and are mighty hungry.
Returning to the Eisenhower lineup will be letterman right tackle Bob Russell. Russell was stricken with a case of "mon" prior to the start of the season and has recuperated fully receiving the doctor's A-O-K approval.
Senior tackle Russell is one of the big men on the Blue and Gold line which the Knights can readily use. Standing 6-2 and weighing 185 pounds, Russell's recovery should be an asset to the Ike squad.
The rest of the Knights lineup will be the same as last week with Jamie Nesmith again calling the signals.
Ike's bid against the Hornets should prove to be a powerful well-drilled attack.

Sugar Grove Holds Pony Pull Sunday

Franklin Tilt Tonight

The Section Two football showdown between the Franklin Knights and the Titusville Rockets was postponed last night because heavy rains in the Franklin area made the field unplayable.

Ridgway Uses Late Rally To Stop Sheffield, 19-12

BY DAVE PIRILLO
RIDGWAY—Stymied for over three and one-half periods the Ridgway Elkers came back strong in the last 17 minutes to knock down the upset bound Wolverines of Sheffield, 19-12 here last night.
Sheffield surprised the Elkers homecoming crowd by scoring twice in the first eight minutes of play and coupled their advantage with a fired-up defense. All looked well and good for the Wolverines until Curt Cretti did a little firing on his own.
Cretti, who had been bottled up for most of the first half, ripped for two TD's and 80 yards rushing in the final quarters to pick the Ridgway eleven up by their bootstraps. Cretti's total yardage for his last home appearance was 121 yards on eighteen carries.
The win gave Ridgway a 6-2 standing on the year and it was also their fifteenth victory in their last seventeen games.
On the other hand Joe Giordano's charges dropped to a 3-4 slate and have a game remaining with Bradford Central Christian.
An official's call could have cost the Wolverines the game. In the closing minutes of the fourth quarter Ridgway was forced to punt with fourth down and five. A clipping penalty was levied on Sheffield's Rob Hart on the runback. The official brought the ball back to the line of scrimmage and marked off fifteen big yards to the Sheffield 30.
This was the incentive the Elkers needed to move in for the final score. From here the Elkers cracked the Sheffield line and brought it down to the two where fullback Ed Flannigan bulled in for the score. This seemed to be the clincher for Sheffield as they had to go through the air in the final series of downs in a "do or die" situation.

The Orange and Black welcomed the Elkers opening kickoff and with perfect execution by quarterback Tim Hecei moved the ball downfield. Hecei brought the visitors into striking distance by hitting Hart with a flare pass that carried to the Elker two. Dave Rounds hit the left side of the line to give Sheffield the go ahead.
Hart kept the Elkers in a frenzy when he intercepted a Mickey Buck pass on the Ridgway 30 and raced to the five. Ted Morrison carried the pigskin in on a lineback and the Elker crowd stared in awed amazement at a 12-0 deficit.

Late in the second period Ridgway came alive as they made good an interception of Hecei's pass on the Wolverines 30. Alternating their plays into the center and around the Sheffield line they managed to move to their opponents four. Cretti cut Sheffield's lead in half by taking Buck's pitchout and slicing in for the score.
It wasn't until five minutes remained in the third period that the Elkers hit again. Cretti capped a 68-yard drive by shooting through the line on a quick opener and out racing the Wolverines for 27 yards and the tying six points.
He then tagged on what could have proved to be the winning points with a flat off left tackle. Even though the extra point was a difference, Flannigan added the insurance score to put the game out of reach with 2:01 showing on the clock.
Sheffield will be home to close their season against Bradford Central Christian next Saturday afternoon at 1:30.

LORD'S ACE HELPS CHILD

The golfing skill of Stuart Lord of Warren has made it possible for a handicapped child to attend summer camp. On Aug. 31, 1968, Lord was playing at the Blueberry Hill golf course when he sank a hole-in-one on the fourth hole.
In recognition of this feat, C. Schmidt & Sons, Inc. will pay the expenses for a handicapped youngster to attend summer camp for one week in a program organized by the Children's Foundation Camping Program for Exceptional Children and sponsored by the Variety Club.

DRAGONS AT KANE TODAY

Warren's Dragons seek a victory today at Kane for more than the usual reasons of pride and the love of winning.
With the Dragons' record now 3-4, a win over the Wolves is essential if the charges of coach Toby Shea are to keep alive their hopes of a winning season.
And a victory would snap Warren's three-game losing streak and end the string of fourth quarter reversals that have dimmed Warren's fortunes against Meadville, Olean and Jamestown.
Dragon coach Shea is expected to start the same lineup he used in last week's 12-0 loss to Jamestown, with Craig Young, Steve Tundell, Dan Reynolds and Danny Krumm in the backfield. The line has one question mark in the person of right tackle Tim Colter, who re-injured his leg last Saturday and has been doing only light workouts this week.
Colter should be available for spot duty, and may start on offense; junior Jim Phillips, will be available to fill in.
Warren's ends will be Jim Mock and Tom Marti, both seniors; senior John Marchione will man the left tackle slot, while senior Tom Beckett and junior Mike Brennan at guard. Jay Goodwill is the starting center.
Kane uses a pro-type offensive formation, and the Wolves excel at a ball-control game, the same philosophy that guides the Dragon coaching staff. The teams are also similar in that both feature big, strong lines and are noted for their hard-nosed play.

Here are the starting lineups:
WARREN
Kane Anderson le Mock
Johnson lt Marchione
Chittester lg Beckett
Adamczyk c Goodwill
Rodgers rg Brennan
Rostan rt Colter or Phillips
McCullough re Marti

Dragon Harriers Run
The Warren Area High School cross-country team travels to Edinboro today to compete in the District Ten meet. Running for the Dragons, who were 6-3 this year in regular competition, will be Larry Maxwell, Randy Brown, Bruce Myers, Grover Cleveland, Dave Dickerson, and either Jon Hahn or Dan Pierce.

DUFFY DAUGHERTY

Head Football Coach
Michigan State University
Don't knock the monster man. He's here to stay in college football and he's not the ogre some of the less average fans picture him to be. The monster actually is an intelligent rover back who seeks to stop the team with the ball.
He is one of the basic differences between college football and the game the pros play. Most college teams try to establish their ground attack first and hopefully compliment it with a passing game.
The pros for the most part establish their passing game and then build their running game around it, running from the same flanker and split end sets that they throw from.
On defense, the pros almost without exception use a 4-3-4 with a lot of man for man coverage in the secondary. Occasionally they go toward a zone defense with one free safety. Sometimes they cover an exceptionally fast receiver with a corner back and a safety. This means their linebackers are forced to cover men out of the backfield man for man.
The defense in vogue in college ball is the monster defense or rover type of defense. This is where you have a five-man alignment of two ends, two defensive tackles and a middle guard.
Backing them up is the monster man, two inside linebackers and three secondary men. Most of the time this is a zone defense that divides the field into thirds.
The monster man or rover will play outside one of the defensive ends. He usually goes to the wide side of the field or to the strength of the opposition's formation.
This leaves a possible weakness on the defensive end away from the monster. To counter this, most monster teams will slant the tackles and middle guards away from the monster on the snap of the ball.
There are other variations from the monster defense. Some teams will stack two inside linebackers behind tackle and will stunt or fire by using a lot of red dogging.
The obvious strength of this type of defense is that you can position your monster, who is one of your finer defensive players, where you think the opposition may run or pass on any given down or situation. You are trying to stop what your opponent is most likely to do at that particular time.
You try to force them into a play that is less likely to succeed. The position of the monster man often forces the attacking team to change its play after the huddle. Sometimes it's the monster man who forces the other team into a time out.
This is an exciting type of defense because you can occasionally change and go man for man, especially when you are using your monster in a blitzing situation.
A monster man must acquire a lot of agility and skill. One of the best monsters or rovers is John Tatum, a 204-pound sophomore from Passaic, N.J.
He was No. 1 fullback on Ohio State's 1967 freshman team and Coach Woody Hayes picked the right spot for Tatum when he made him the Buckeye monster man. It was Tatum who covered All-American Leroy Keyes so effectively in the upset of Purdue.

Stefanich Leads Bowlers

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Jim Stefanich of Joliet, Ill., has taken an insurmountable lead in the official money standings of the Professional Bowlers Association.
Stefanich finished second in the just completed Japan Gold Cup Invitational, winning $1,200, to increase his winnings for the year to $66,375.
Runnerup Dave Davis of Phoenix, Ariz., with $41,462, could not catch Stefanich even if he won all four of the PBA's remaining tournaments, including the $10,000 National Championship.
Others in the top ten are: Bill Allen, Orlando, Fla., $37,137; Don Johnson, Kokomo, Ind., $36,590; Billy Hardwick, Louisville, Ky., $33,805; Dave Soutar, Gilroy, Calif., $27,137; Wayne Zahn, Atlanta, $26,815; Dick Riggen, Hartford, Wis., $26,146; John Guenther, Seattle, Wash., $25,292; and Nelson Burton Jr., St. Louis, $20,605.

Every once in awhile I like to get around to the letters that come to me from readers as they are greatly appreciated and in general relate to something that is of interest to other readers. However, it isn't either possible or practical to mention or comment on all of them as some are more personal than directed to the interests of the outdoorsman.

But among the letters I have received recently is one from W. G. Wurtenburg, Jr., of Sheffield which calls my attention to a letter he wrote Secretary of Forest and Waters Maurice Goddard, stating, "If you are a hunter yourself you will probably find it difficult to sympathize with such a viewpoint."

His letter to Goddard reads:

Dear Mr. Goddard:

After reading recently in the newspapers that state parks are to be opened to hunters, I feel compelled to provide you with a bit of information that you obviously lack—not all the people who take to the woods in the fall of the year to enjoy the foliage and invigorating air are hunters! This probably did not occur to you.

It seems unfortunate that the pressure from the shooting fraternity usually adumbrates the wishes and desires of others. It is a shame that these pressures have closed all of the woods to those who do not have to draw blood to enjoy nature during this beautiful season. My wife and I (and probably thousands of other Pennsylvanians who will not take the trouble to write) feel neglected.

True, we do not spend a couple of hundred dollars on armaments and other "sportive" devices, but I am sure you would agree that we also have a right to enjoy the public lands. If money is the deciding factor, I am certain bird-watchers would be glad to pay for the privilege of walking through areas where their lives would not be jeopardized. Hunters have the entire Allegheny National Forest and many tracts of state game lands on which to disport themselves. State parks should be closed to hunting so that us queer ducks will also have a place to roam.

Please, in the future, consider the entire spectrum of the population and give those of us who enjoy a quieter and less restive outdoor occupation some consideration. Our "harvest" is not animal carcasses, but simple enjoyment.

Very truly yours,
W. G. Wurtenburg, Jr.

Well, it so happens I don't disagree with his viewpoint. Hunting in some of the large state parks in some other parts of the state where thousands of acres are involved may be practical, but not in a park as small as Chapman Dam. And especially in parks such as Chapman Dam where fall fishing can be and is the predominant sport.

But in my personal opinion the problem is one that goes beyond the boundaries of state parks and other public lands. With the increased interest in the outdoors by a large non-hunting segment of the population during the "resplendent" months of the year, we will not long be able to allow the hunter to consider our woodlands as his personal domain too far into the future. The ranks of the "nature lovers" is swelling by leaps and bounds. Some consideration of their pleasure and safety will become inevitable.

Another letter that arrived recently in my mail deals with the real love of my life—fishing. It was written by Sydney Sapozink of Rochester, N.Y., who after reading an article in the Rochester Democrat-Chronicle by Floyd King, decided he wanted to have a crack at fishing in Kinzua Country.

Syd writes that he has been the victim of a stroke since 1963, but he can still get out and do some rodding if getting to the stream doesn't present too much of a problem. He specifically wanted to know if a person in his physical condition could get to the fishing at the tailwaters of Kinzua Dam. I will certainly arrange for him to get to a good spot there if he can make the trip to Warren.

But this brings up a problem that is facing many of our area fishermen who aren't the men they used to be. Heart attacks and other afflictions are keeping a lot of our dedicated fishermen at home because there are few places where they can get to decent fishing in their present condition. It seems that in one way or another we (the community) should be able to do something about the situation.

In addition to these two routine letters, I have been getting a lot of correspondence from the outdoor writers who recently visited Warren as guests of the Kinzua Dam Vacation Bureau. They say a lot of nice things about us—that Kinzua Country is an outdoorsman's dream and the people of the area are the finest to be found anywhere.

In a future column I will get into discussing some other letters I have had recently relating to camping, hiking, canoeing the river, and (best of all) how do you catch a musky? I'll need some help on that last one, so maybe some of the local experts will help out by dropping me a line. I'll appreciate the tips—for my personal use.

POTENTIAL IN WARREN COUNTY

Proposed Erie Racetrack Boon To Warren County

By DENNY BONAVITA

Horse racing, thoroughbred style, may soon be a novel and exciting recreational activity just an hour away from Warren County residents.

The proposed Lakelands Racing Association track, to be built at the intersection of Interstate 90 and Pa. Route 98 near Fairview, just west of Erie, can become a sterling tourist attraction as well as a direct economic boon to the entire northwestern Pennsylvania area, according to C. Ray Edmonds, the consultant and proposed general manager of the facility.

Edmonds and Fritz Mitchell of Mitchell Advertising in Erie were in Warren on Friday as part of a familiarization and survey they are conducting throughout the region, and they stopped at the TMO office to extol the benefits of the facility. "Economically, of course, we'll have a great bearing on the employment level in the area," said Edmonds, "as we expect to employ about 450 people on a permanent basis."

"And then we'll have to have feed for the 1,000 to 1,100 horses we expect to stable at the track, plus scores of ancillary people to aid us in its operation."

The proposed track is currently under consideration by the Pennsylvania Racing Commission in Harrisburg, which is holding hearings with a view toward awarding franchises to interested groups.

The Lakelands Association is headed by Erieite Richard King as president, John English as vice-president, and Thomas Schuchert as vice-president. Edmonds is currently a consultant and will assume general manager's duties on the awarding of the franchise.

"And a racetrack is no place for undesirable people such as criminals," Edmonds continued. "We'd be supervised much more closely than any other business enterprise, with FBI, Treasury Dept., Internal Revenue, Racing Commission, State and Local police officials either on hand or visiting us regularly."

"These agencies supply our security guards with photos and information on wanted men, and every employee of ours must be fingerprinted and licensed by the state before he's hired. "So a racetrack has become the last place a person hiding from the law or of questionable character would be likely to frequent," he concluded.

The facility, to cost $8,000,000 when completed, will feature 50 acres of paved parking, and a clubhouse-grandstand complex seating 10,000 spectators. The entire seating area will be glass-enclosed and air-conditioned, with the exception of some outdoor seats for open-air buffs.

"We want this track to be a local endeavor, and we're looking for the man or woman who is looking for some exciting entertainment say, once or twice a week, rather than nightly addicts," said Edmonds.

"Statistically, we have figures to show that the average person may lose $9.00 in a night at the track," he continued. "Sure, he'll bet about $60.00; but he'll win some and lose some, and that $9.00 is about where he'll come out. Compared to baseball or football, it's not a bad price for a whole night's entertainment. "The track's 'take' is about only 15 per cent, and the rest of the amount bet goes into the mutual pool. So if one man loses, another man is profiting, and the track is acting solely as a commission facility."

Mitchell added that area persons interested in seeing the track come to northwestern Pennsylvania should write to the Pennsylvania Racing Commission in Harrisburg and express their views. Other groups are competing for the franchises, and the Erie area track needs the support of all area people if it is to become a reality and then a success, he concluded.

Eagles' Finale Set For Today

The conclusion of the 1968 football season for the Youngsville Eagles will take place this afternoon, on their home grounds, with Parents Day. In doing so, the Eagles will battle with the Conneaut Valley Indians.

The Indians come to Youngsville on what could be termed, "a long season." They have yet to win a game in seven attempts; worse yet, six of those losses have been shutouts. They have only scored one touchdown and that was on the tail end of a 37-6 decision with Reynolds.

Youngsville is looking for a second win for the year. Their only triumph came at Seagertown, as they blanketed the Panthers, 19-0. In dealing with the Indians in the previous season, the Eagles came up with an 18-14 verdict.

Eight Eagles in the starting lineup will wear their red and white jerseys for the last time. They are Jack Maze at left end, Bob Long alternating and Chris Johnson at the right end slot. Arch Perrin and John Campbell in the tackle positions, while Jeff Luvison and Dave Mitchell will finish up in the guard spots. Center Dick Address rounds out the all-senior line.

Coach Weiker plans to use the same defensive unit that he used in last week's game with Townville. This includes seven sophomores, who are gaining valuable experience for the 1969 and '70 seasons. This is the first week the Eagles have been relatively free of injuries on defense.

Tom Burleigh can be expected to do most of the ground work against the visitors, Tom Randinelli is a probably starter at right half and sophomore, Steve Ostrander gets the starting nod at fullback in place of the injured John Etter.

Coach Frank Dietelich doesn't have the needed experience this year to stabilize the Conneaut attack. Fullback Rick Ballard and halfback Dick Sowry are the best the Indians have to offer in their offensive workings.

Game time this afternoon is scheduled for 1:30 p.m. Tickets will be on sale at the gate. A dollar for adults and fifty cents for students.

Chiefs Surprise With Formations

NEW YORK (AP) — Before last week the San Diego Chargers might have been surprised. But they won't even raise a collective eyebrow Sunday when the Kansas City Chiefs come out in the single wing.

After all, what else is left for Hank Stram to do?

The Chiefs' coach surprised the Oakland Raiders by reverting to the old-fashioned straight T-formation last Sunday, and Kansas City wound up with an upset and retention of first place in the American Football League's Western Division.

The Chiefs are only one-half game ahead of the Chargers and more or less have to win because they play the Raiders again the following week.

The Baltimore Colts are in a similar position in the National League in their game against the undefeated Los Angeles Rams. A loss would be the Colts' second, and they have to play the Rams again in the last game of the season.

In his latest wanderings among these strategic and artistic geniuses, the pro prognosticator has decided to go with one of these "must win" teams.

He came out of last week's wanderings with an 8-4 record for a season total of 51.24 (18-10 in the AFL and 33-14 in the NFL) and a .680 percentage.

Here are the latest selections with all games Sunday except the Green Bay-Dallas clash which is Monday night.

AFL

Kansas City 23, San Diego 14—Chiefs are still hurting for pass receivers, but powerful ground game, featuring rookie Robert Holmes, and solid defense should be just enough to overcome Chargers' potent offense.

New York 34, Boston 20—Joe Namath, who gets intercepted, meets Nick Buoniconti, who does some intercepting, and Namath comes out on top.

Houston 21, Buffalo 3—Bills, forever hurting, may be without quarterback Dan Darragh and flanker Haven Moses. Houston without quarterback Pete Beathard again but still has that stingy defense.

Miami 28, Denver 14—Bob Griese bombs Broncos while Dolphins escape Steve Tensi's bombs because he has bruised left shoulder.

Oakland 45, Cincinnati 0—What a day for Paul Brown's team to play the Raiders, who have lost two in a row after winning 14 straight.

NFL
Los Angeles 21, Baltimore 17—Johnny Unitas' elbow tendonitis suddenly has made Colts' title chances tender, and Rams hope to make them even more so.

Minnesota 17, Chicago 14—Viking defense should have easy enough time stopping rookie quarterback Virgil Carter.

St. Louis 28, New Orleans 14—Receiver Dave Parks is back for Saints after missing four games, but Cardinals are rolling.

Detroit 28, San Francisco 17—No paper lions are Bill Munson and Mel Farr.

New York 27, Washington 21—Giants might not penetrate Sonny Jurgensen's bullet-proof vest covering his cracked rib, but they will penetrate Redskins' defense.

Cleveland 31, Atlanta 14—Norm Van Brocklin has Falcons stirred up, but look what Browns did to Baltimore last week.

Pittsburgh 17, Philadelphia 16—This is the Rams-Colts clash at the other end of the standings. Maybe no one will win.

Dallas 20, Green Bay 17—If the Cowboys don't beat championship game nemesis now, they never will.

Test Procedure

HARRISBURG—The first practical demonstration of the work actually, the decision — of last winter's Constitutional Convention will take place within a few weeks after the general election.

The wheels began grinding on this project in Pittsburgh last week, at the wake for the late Justice Michael A. Musmanno. There Governor R. A. Shafer pulled Supreme Court Chief Justice John Bell aside and asked him to go along with a test of the proposed new procedure for picking justices, and judges, Mr. Bell agreed.

The procedure, which must be endorsed by the electorate in next year's primary election, is the only Constitutional change on which the 163 delegates were in substantial disagreement. Tossing the issue to the voters was a compromise.

There have been lesser court vacancies since the Convention adjourned. But the Governor, drawing on the well-known Musmanno name, has picked this vacancy with which to dramatize the issue. It is a procedure the out-spoken Mr. Musmanno opposed.

The proposal for putting new men on the benches of the Commonwealth is supposed to take the courts out of politics.

The Governor names four non-lawyers to a Judicial Qualifications Commission; the chief justice names three lawyers. No more than four can be from the same party. Commissioners serve on a sliding basis and the panel turns over in seven years.

The Commission recommends between 10 and 20 nominees for the bench. The Governor gets to pick the man he wants from that list. Obviously, he can't miss unless he's totally inept at naming his four members of the panel.

Since both Mr. Bell and Mr. Shafer came up through GOP hustings, inevitably the original panel will be weighted in favor of Republicans. When a Democrat becomes governor, he may get a crack at two of the four seats on the panel. But Justice Shafer, another Republican, succeeds Bell as chief justice in 1972 and not until 1978 will a Democrat—Herbert Cohen—succeed to the top spot, ironically, Democrat Musmanno was next in line for chief justice.

Gov. Shafer can't help but have his way on the successor to the Musmanno seat on Pennsylvania's highest court, and his appointee would then survive through a full 10 year term—down from the present 21-year term.

An "appointee" keeps his bench until the first Monday of January following the municipal

Market Remains Slightly Higher

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market once more showed its sensitivity to the idea of peace in Vietnam and spurred late Friday to come out with a pretty fair gain. Trading was active.

Volume was 14.15 million shares, compared with 18.3 million Thursday.

The Dow Jones industrial average advanced 4.60 to 961.28. The list was irregular in early trading but moved gradually into plus territory as selling pressure relaxed. By noon there was a very thin gain, however. In the afternoon trading picked up and more insistent buying pushed stocks well into plus territory.

Analysts credited rumors of a possible move toward peace in Vietnam over the weekend for the increased strength. Nebulous as the rumors were—and Wall Street has heard plenty of them over the past several days—investors thought it safer to be "long" rather than "short" in the market during the weekend. They figured that if lightning struck and there was a big, factual peace development over the weekend, they would be caught short in a rampaging bull market, analysts said.

The rumors were given more support by a statement from Republican presidential nominee Richard M. Nixon who said he had learned President Johnson was "driving very hard" for an agreement on a Vietnam bombing halt.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose .7 to 355.7, with industrials up 1.9, rails off .4, and utilities up .7.

Of 1,582 issues traded on the New York Stock Exchange, 741 rose and 604 fell. New highs for the year total 86 and new lows 13.

Despite the higher market, nine of the 15 most-active stocks were losers, 5 were winners, and Texas Utilities closed unchanged at 54 1/2.

The honor of being most-active stock was captured in the last half hour by Imperial Corp. of America, a savings-and-loan holding company, which traded on successive blocks of 374,100 and 20,000 shares at 15 1/2. The stock closed at 16, up 1/2, on total volume of 425,700 shares.

Ann Landers

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I came across something which describes how I feel to the nth degree. I hope you will print it because it is the story of my life - mine and a million other teen-age girls. Here it is:

"Whoever started that fairy-tale that teen-age years are the happiest must have been out of his head.

"I hope thousands of teen-age boys see this because they are the main reason for the misery of so many teen-age girls. At every party, whether it's a school hop, or a get-together at somebody's house, or a church mixer, you always see a group of girls standing in a circle. They are laughing and talking and at a glance you think they are having a wonderful time.

"The truth is they are having a lousy time and they wish they had stayed home. These girls stick together and try to look gay, but they are miserable and depressed because they know they will stand there all evening and no boy will ask them to dance.

"All the boys run after three or four of the prettiest and most popular girls. The plainer girls, like me, never get a tumble. It's humiliating and heartbreaking.

"Why doesn't someone tell high school boys to be more considerate. So what if a girl is not a great dancer or a living doll? She may have a lot on the ball if only a guy would give her a chance. One thing is certain. She'll appreciate you a lot more than the chick who is run ragged by every fellow in the place."

Isn't that a wonderful article, Ann? I hope you agree and print it. - SEEING MYSELF

DEAR SEEING: Yes, it's very good. I thought so when I published it in my column about five years ago.

Where did you say you saw it? Clue me. We have lawyers who know how to deal with publications that use copyrighted material without permission.

DEAR MESS LA. DERS: Our daughter plans to be married in June, following her graduation from college. Brenda has been active in the church on campus. She wants to be married there. She was also active in our family church but has gotten away from it since she went away to school.

We have no objection to her choice, but it means her grandparents, aunts and uncles and our older friends will have quite a distance to travel and will probably not make the trip. Also, arranging a reception in a strange city will be a lot of extra work for me.

Will you give us an outsider's opinion? - MRS. BRP OF BOSTON.

DEAR MRS.: The bride's decision should be final. It would have been generous had she considered your wishes, but since she did not, go along with her preference and keep all the plans very simple. And don't be bashful about asking her to handle some of the arrangements.

Warren County Historical Society guide, Miss Margaret Whitcomb, with Mrs. Donald King and Mrs. William Deutschlander of Beta Sigma Phi, Epsilon Epsilon chapter, which made a tour of the society's headquarters on Fourth avenue. (TMO Photo)

Beta Sigma Phi Chapter Learns Interesting History

Members of Epsilon Epsilon Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi International Sorority met at the Warren County Historical Society on Wednesday, October 23, at 8 p. m. for a tour of the society's headquarters on Fourth Avenue, Miss Margaret Whitcomb of the society was guide.

Miss Whitcomb began the tour by giving a brief history, pointing out a portrait of Governor Stone who was the first president of the society in 1895. The first quarters were on the third floor of the courthouse.

The building that now houses the society was built by Thomas Struthers in about 1870 as a wedding gift to his daughter and George Wetmore. After Mrs. Wetmore's death, Mr. Wetmore and his son lived in the house until 1890 at which time it was bought by the Schimmelfengs. In 1950 the County Commissioners purchased the home from the Schimmelfengs. Several pieces of furniture were donated by Miss Frances Schimmelfeng.

Mr. Frank Clemens who lived with his sister, Alice, on the corner of Hickory and Fourth Streets and whose home was recently demolished, left a lot of important papers to the Society on his death. Mr. Clemens was a prominent citizen with a great interest in education. According to Miss Whitcomb, at one time when the school system was financially unable to buy books for the students, Mr. Clemens traveled to Erie and purchased them at his own expense and returned to Warren with the books where they were copied by hand in the schools.

In the office hangs an excellent copy of a portrait of Chief Cornplanter. Members of Beta Sigma Phi, Epsilon Epsilon Chapter, were told the original is in the collection of the New York Historical Society in New York City. At the time the portrait was painted a new suit of clothes was purchased for Cornplanter. On the Indian Chief's return home, after the portrait was made, the vehicle in which he was riding overturned causing a metal neckpiece to pierce his eye leaving him blinded in that eye.

The most valuable documents of the Historical Society are kept in a safe, and one of them is John Daniel's ledger, a regular store ledger. It contains the account of Johnny Appleseed. Some of the accounts entered would be credited with skins; perhaps Johnny Appleseed's with apples, Miss Whitcomb observed.

There is an interesting collection of souvenirs of Col. Fred Windsor which includes an old carbine, war medals, a uniform, an autographed photo, and a well used canteen.

Epsilon Epsilon Chapter was the first group to see the new exhibit on the second floor. In 1852, Mr. Ayer opened a country store in Tidioute. In 1866, Mr. Julius Bourquin went to work in the store and eventually owned the store (1870) until 1926 when he suffered a broken hip. His son, Dr. Justin Bourquin, recently gave enough samples of old time items to furnish a replica of the original store. It contained such items as crocks, oversized egg cups, old time irons, a reed carpet beater, a cracker barrel, pepper boxes, post office boxes containing letters dating back to the early 1900's, dishes, a ledger marked 1899, and a cookbook published in the late 1800's.

Miss Whitcomb told her guests another interesting fact: Found at the site of St. Joseph's Roman Catholic Church, on Pennsylvania avenue, West, was a grave containing several Indians and a white man. They were buried in circular fashion, their feet forming the hub. The Society possesses buttons taken from the white man's clothing. Also uncovered were several faceless Indian dolls. They were made without faces because no one's face is the same at all times.

The Society has a marvelous collection of portraits, many are unknown, but one is that of Henry R. Rouse, who at the time of his death left most of his wealth to Warren County. Sorority members were impressed with the gorgeous ornate frames on these portraits which are valued at $500 each.

Following the tour, a business meeting was conducted by the Beta Sigma Phi, Epsilon Epsilon Chapter president, Mrs. Donald Peterson, at the home of Mrs. James Graziano, 1319 Penna. ave. W. Mrs. Graziano reported that there are still copies of "Beta Sigma Phi International Dessert Book" available to anyone wishing to purchase them. They may be obtained by calling Mrs. Peterson at 723-1198 or Mrs. Graziano at 723-5334 or any member of the Chapter.

Mrs. Richard Sedon announced that the Preferential Tea will be held at the home of Mrs. Joseph DeMott, 7 Canton St., on Sunday, October 27, from 2-4 in the afternoon. Prospective members of Epsilon Epsilon Chapter will be guests of honor. Mrs. Sedon also reported that the Pledge Banquet will be held at the Town Club at 210 Pine Street in Jamestown on November 6th.

To conclude the evening, refreshments were served by the hostess.

On October 31 the troop will hold a Halloween party, and, on November 7, the Brownies will tour the Warren Historical Society headquarters in Warren.

Area League Devoted to Growth of Fine Art

Warren Art League is an organization of men and women, young and old devoted to the promotion and growth of fine art in the community of Warren.

The membership of the league numbers well over 100 persons, who meet monthly seven months a year to enjoy a variety of programs ranging from demonstrations to movies, lectures, art instruction workshops and criticism sessions.

Organized nearly 15 years ago when 10 members of Joseph Spence's adult art class formed a branch of the Amateur Artists of America Association, the club has enjoyed a steady growth in membership, interest and artistic achievement.

The first organizational meeting of the group was conducted in November of 1953. By February 1957, a constitution and by-laws had been adopted, and in 1958 the league was incorporated under the laws of Pennsylvania as a non-profit organization. In 1959 the present name "Warren Art League" was adopted, and by 1962 the group had arranged to lease the Swick house at 305 E. Fifth ave.

Aquisition of the Swick house was the first definite step toward an earlier dream of the group that an art museum might someday be established in Warren, and that the community might come to be recognized as one of the more prominent art centers of northwestern Pennsylvania.

Today the club's directed purpose falls into four separated yet inter-related categories. These are membership, education, art promotion and community service.

Toward their goal of advancing fine art education in the community the league sponsors classes conducted by professional instructors, during two sessions each year. Classes and courses of instruction offered to members and non-members alike include painting and sketching in several different medias including oils, watercolor, acrylics and pencil.

The first classes were classes in oil painting, conducted by Mrs. Betty McClain. Following the oil painting classes, a course in watercolor was offered.

Some of the exceptional talent brought to Warren to further art education included Joseph Plavcan, Erie; Charles Mullen, art teacher, Conneaut Lake Area High School; Mrs. Ralph Bruce, Edinboro, who taught composition, perspective simple light and shade and representation by line or volume.

Both experienced and new students work together in the classes learning from each other.

A new slide program has recently been incorporated by the league to further art appreciation and education. Slide programs with commentary and discussions on art and artists have been scheduled at various times during the year.

Through the efforts of Mr. and Mrs. Richard McClain two rare art shows have been brought to Warren in recent years. The first and Eskimo Art Show illustrated the primitive expressions of the hunters and fishermen of Povungnituk, a village in the Quebec tundra. The second, a show titled "American Avant Garde" illustrated the many forms of media which is incorporated into present day art, including Pop-Art and Op-Art.

These educational programs sponsored by the art league help advance another prime purpose of the league, that purpose being the promotion of art in the community.

Promotional programs sponsored each year by the league includes three annual art shows.

The league's Sidewalk Show conducted in September is for members picture only. The first sidewalk show was held in 1957. Proceeds from this event were used to augment the 1957 Art Sponsors Fund.

A Christmas show conducted annually in November features both member's paintings and imported paintings. In 1963 drawings and paintings shown were brought from Philadelphia

STAINED GLASS

Art expression by members of the league takes many forms. Steve Saylor creates stained glass figures with artful manipulation of soldering iron, glass cutter and dyed glass. Steve has worked at this art form for well over 30 years.

LITHOGRAPHY

Employing a form of lithography, Dick Stein, president of the league, is presently engaged in making prints from designs etched on linoleum. Once the linoleum etching is completed the design can be transferred to various material, cloth, paper, metal, etc. through the use of inks and dyes.

STRIVE TO IMPROVE

Art League members constantly strive to improve their creative talents through class activities and group critique sessions. Discussing a wildlife painting, Clarence Pearson, second from right, chairman of the educational

adding a variety of media and expression to the local display. Other Christmas shows have featured original etchings and lithographs by Pablo Picasso, George Roualt and Marc Chagall.

The third annual show is the Art Festival held usually in June. For the Art Festival the Warren Art League invites art groups from surrounding communities to compete for awards. Festival artists come from Bradford, Smethport, Kane, St. Marys, Ridgway, Brockway, Brookville, Clarion, Oil City, Titusville, Corry and Jamestown, N.Y. For this show school children are invited to submit art work for display.

Lectures to promote art in the community have been presented by distinguished and well known artists, like Douglas Pickering, acclaimed Pittsburgh's Artist of the Year, 1967; Gloria Stoll Karns, president of Abstract Artist, Pittsburgh and named in Who's Who in American Art; A. B. Charley, art instructor, Clarion, who demonstrated various steps in clay sculpture; and Rolland J. Laffery, Edinboro, who demonstrated an Oriental method of making and firing pottery.

The promotion of art through community service is accomplished by the league in many ways.

As community service art league members employ their talents for many community organizations, groups and businesses.

Each year the Jaycees enlist the help of league members to judge floats in the Jaycee sponsored Fourth of July celebration Art league members paint scenery for variety shows such as the Barbershoppers annual "Night of Harmony."

Many special projects are taken on by individual members of the league. Murals, based on a seasonal theme, were recently completed by area artists, at Warren State Hospital. These murals took over a year to complete.

Probably the best known community project sponsored by the league is the "Art Sponsors Fund." This fund is being used to build a permanent art collection at Warren Area High School.

In 1965 a revolving show of member's works was started at Edinboro off campus center. This show is rotated three times per year.

Paintings have been hung at Rouse Hospital and Warren Age Center, all as part of the league's community service program.

The Warren Art League has grown in both stature and membership over the past 15 years. As recently as last year area artists and representatives of local art groups, in a continuing effort to stimulate growth and interest, met with Theodore Hazlett Jr., chairman of the Pennsylvania Council on the Arts, and Vincent R. Artz, executive director of the council to discuss the expansion of current cultural activities in Warren through professional and technical assistance.

The interest in fine art, in Warren, has grown during the past 15 years through the efforts of the Warren Art League. It is through the league's efforts the interest and appreciation of fine art will continue to grow.

Old General Store Theme of Historical Society Open House

By FRANKLIN R. HOFF

Hundreds of area people are figuratively getting into a time machine this weekend, and being whirled back to the early days of this century, as the Warren County Historical Society open house presents an authentic old-time general store.

The display, prepared under direction of Quinn Smith, is an almost incredible event. In 1926 the general store in Tidioute which had been founded in 1852, and operated since 1870 by Julius Bourquin, closed its doors. Nothing was disturbed. Everything remained intact, just as it was until a year or more ago his son, Dr. Justin Bourquin, who had retired from his dental practice and returned to Warren County in 1959, turned the contents of the store over to the Warren County Historical Society. It was given in memory of his sister, Miss Caroline Bourquin, who was an instructress of nurses at Warren General Hospital.

With infinite care, the items were brought to the historical society headquarters in the Courthouse annex. During the past few weeks a display has been arranged for the 1968 open house. Everything is there, just as it appeared to customers when the whistles and bells ushered in the new century in 1900. Nearly everything has changed in food merchandising since 1926, and in addition the old general stores carried everything imaginable for home and farm.

Dishes, crocks, earthen jars to can fruits and vegetables, the old hand operated coffee grinder are there. The cracker barrel figures nostalgically in sagas of early America. It was raided, along with generous slices from the big round cheese, by checker-players and political debaters who gathered around the old pot-bellied stove in the long winter afternoons and evenings.

The general store was more than a mere merchandising emporium. It was a social center, where everyone met. Many of the old general stores in Warren County also contained the local post office. School youngsters came with their fists full of coppers to make difficult decisions as to what penny candy they would buy.

Dresses, yard goods, thread, and other items were offered. The display at the Historical Society includes the original counter balance scales, with its graduated iron weights, the string holder and the roll of craft paper which wrapped parcels, and before factory made bags was twisted into a cone to make a "poke" for many foods and other products.

An old rattan carpet beater, never used, will remind not a few, of the old spring ritual when tacks were pulled and carpets and rugs put out on clothes lines and on lawns and given thorough beating to drive out the dust and dirt.

The predecessor of today's vastly expanded vending machines which dispense almost anything from candy, apples, meals, hosiery, or what have you, was the old-time gum machine. A penny was dropped into it, and a little man inside the window turned, and supposedly took the stick of gum off the shelf and dropped it in the hopper, and it came out at the bottom.

Today antique dealers and decorators are searching for the old beautifully decorated tin tea and coffee containers. These are among the many items that are fascinating visitors this weekend. Friday, October 25, from 7 to 9 p.m., Saturday, October 26, from 1 to 4 p.m. and Sunday afternoon October

Society Display Takes One Back in Time

27, from 1 to 4 p.m.

The occasion of the Historical Society's open house is made more enjoyable by guided tours, with members piloting visitors through the entire display.

The story of the Bourquin general store is an interesting vignette of Warren County history. It was opened by a Mr. Ayer in 1852 in Tidioute. At one time it was known as Ayer and Parshall. Later on Parshall sold his interest to Ayer. Then in 1866, at the age of 17 years, Julius Bourquin became a clerk in the store. He worked for Ayers until 1870, when he bought the store.

Julius Bourquin continued to operate his store until 1926, when he suffered a broken hip. The store was closed then, and left undisturbed over the ensuing years.

Knowing of the Warren County Historical Society's interest in items of local history, Dr. Bourquin turned over the collection in memory of his sister, Miss Caroline Bourquin.

His father, Julius (Jules) Bourquin, was a brother of Federal Judge George Bourquin. He started working in the Ayers store at the age of 17. It is recalled that Ayers was an educated gentleman who came from England. When he bought the store in 1870, Julius Bourquin was just 21.

The young entrepreneur was born May 25, 1849 at Shaw's Landin, in Crawford County. His father, Justin J. Bourquin, had been educated in Switzerland to be a teacher. Instead, he came to America, and became a blacksmith.

Jules' mother, Celestine Cucray Bourquin, was born at Goudemain les Molines, Department of Doubs, France. When she came to America with her family, at the tender age of 13, their ship was wrecked off the coast of Newfoundland. The family archives record that before they were rescued, cannibalism threatened. In fact, her brother had been picked as a victim. Fortunately a passing vessel rescued them, and took them back to England. From there they returned to America.

In the shipwreck they lost all their belongings, except the family trunk, which contained their money and a crucifix—which was restored to them.

Guides for the open house this week end at the Historical Society open house include Mrs. Keith Chase, Miss Barbara Donham, Mrs. Earl Ericson, Mrs. Howard Grotzinger, Mrs. Robert Israel, Mrs. Brace Knabenshue, Mrs. W. D. McElwain, Mrs. Wayne Painter, Mrs. Eva Passenger, Mrs. Hazel Sarvis, Mrs. James Springer and Miss Margaret Whitcomb.

Hosts and hostesses for the open house are Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Barrett, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Conaway, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Corcoran, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Dalrymple, Miss Catherine Henderson, Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Hoff, Mr. and Mrs. Chase Putnam, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Putnam, Mrs. Frances Ramsey and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Stratton.

All are welcome. There is no admission.

PENNY GUM MACHINE

Old-time penny gum machine from Bourquin General store in Tidioute was archetype of modern vending machine industry. Laurie Holding, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James C. Holding, places a penny in the machine, and a little man inside turns around and dispenses a stick of gum. The machine is part of a remarkable display at Warren Co. Historical Society open house today and Sunday. (Photo by T. K. Stratton)

Your Horoscope By Frances Drake

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars, FOR SATURDAY, OCTOBER 26, 1968

ARIES (March 21 to April 20)—Aspects, not wholly friendly, suggest that you strive to avoid misunderstandings, keep budget and habits in line, and carefully protect your interests.

TAURUS (April 21 to May 21)—Not a spectacular day, but friendly for education, individual advancement; experimenting, straightening out complications, reconciliations, home-making. Don't force issues.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21)—You can do more, work better, aim for greater attainments now, but you must also have knowledge of your subject, be sure of your methods.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23)—An active period: You may have to slow down, though, to review, make notes. Don't ignore the good "little" things in the Big Push.

LEO (July 24 to August 23)—You could be out of sorts if you pamper your inclinations. Don't! Aim at thoroughness; take precautions to avoid the clutter and errors that hold back your productivity.

VIRGO (August 24 to September 23)—A big day for big doings. Emphasize your best traits and you can do considerable to help form new plans, improve and organize effectively. Do not hesitate to take forward steps.

LIBRA (September 24 to October 23)—Favorable aspects, but unless you are on the lookout for flaws, you may miss in a few places. Day calls for adherence to rules, sincere pressing for results, doing your best without strain.

SCORPIO (October 24 to November 22)—This day's activities must be handled ON TIME and without misgivings. The faithful worker shall win many benefits. Sidetrack all non-essentials.

SAGITTARIUS (November 23 to December 21)—Jupiter's auspicious configuration should instill you with new vigor, help you to establish better relationships. Actions will speak loudly; your big ideas should pay off now.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 20)—Search for a more distinguished, more helpful way to support good measures. You can handle them with greater ease when you depend on your own efforts.

AQUARIUS (January 21 to February 19)—Mild influences. You are just about on your own to decide, act, work out new tactics. Or is it better to stay with what is in force? Don't stand still though; improvement is always needed.

PISCES (February 20 to March 20)—Conquer a tendency toward lethargy now and determine to get in there with some excellent pitching (at which you are uniquely able), and make a definite, deliberate effort to win.

YOU BORN TODAY: The native of Scorpio is a brilliant, often powerful individual. You have a variety of abilities and talents, but usually stay with one major occupation, and attain considerable success in unusual ways. You work conscientiously as a general practice, thus grow inwardly and outwardly. You can follow or lead, and often lead in side lines if not in your regular work. Your vision is long-range, your tactics can change as occasion demands and new trends whet your appetite for further success. You have fine insight into human nature. Birthdate of: Mahalia Jackson, noted singer.

How to Keep Well By Dr. T. R. Van Dellen

(c) 1968 By The Chicago Tribune

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

KALA-AZAR, CATS, AND STATURE

Height measurements are more meaningful when taken repeatedly over a span of months or years. Studies conducted by Dr. Judson J. Van Wyk at the University of North Carolina school of medicine, show that children go through gigantic growth surges, followed by periods of growing backwards.

In other words, one measurement tells nothing unless several previous readings are charted. This is especially true when trying to predict the ultimate height of a child who is "too short" or "too tall" for his age.

Measuring the squirming boy or girl is not always easy. Shoes should be removed. Then make sure that the youngster is standing straight, and that the knees are not sagging. Knowing the family history also helps. The short child may have short parents, or, perhaps a lazy thyroid is depressing growth.

Veterinarians from the University of Pennsylvania have evidence that pets may act as hosts or reservoirs of diseases common to man. Forty-two farm cats were tested for tuberculosis. Seventeen had the disease; all animals lived in close contact with cattle and drank unpasteurized milk from infected cows.

Of four dogs living on farms, three had positive tuberculin tests. The vets also examined 20 dogs whose owners had active tuberculosis. Eight (40 per cent) demonstrated positive results. In other words, the pet, whose owner has active tuberculosis, must be considered a potential reservoir. The old custom of squirting milk into the mouth of the farm Tabby may be coming to an end.

Kala-azar is an ancient disease that cropped up recently in Baltimore. An 18-year-old Greek male immigrant was suffering from weakness, weight loss, chills, fever, vomiting, pallor, and nosebleed. The disorder, most unusual in our country, flourishes in the middle and far east. Dogs harbor the causative parasite which is transmitted to man via the bite of an infected sandfly.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies the request.

Conversational Counselling And Compost

By Bernie Wingert, County Agent

Here we are almost finished with October—the petunias are still blooming in the planters, and the tuberous begonia under my sundeck looks more beautiful than it did in August. I've noticed some new growth on the boxwood too. This fine weather must be confusing as the dickens to a lot of plants that would have normally been frosted a month ago.

To get back to my begonia, I thought perhaps I should check and see why it has been blooming so much lately. I found a brand new leaflet on my desk top, and discovered some interesting things to share with you.

Here's what Bob Nuss, Extension Ornamental Horticulturist at Penn State, has to say—"Although warm temperatures are needed for good plant growth, you will find that larger, more lasting flowers and a more compact plant are formed in the cool summer air. Night temperatures of 55 deg. are ideal. The begonia is not a "shade plant" as is often thought. If they are grown in dense shade, they become tall and spindly, develop few flowers, and leaves, and are more likely to get diseases. They actually do best where they receive two or three hours of early morning and late afternoon sun. These conditions are possible on the north side of a house or wall."

"After the first light frost, dig the tubers and wash all the soil from them. Allow the stems and tubers to dry thoroughly, and store in a dark, dry location until spring."

I'm stymied at this point because of no frost yet at my house. But snow will come one of these days and the begonia will probably still be making new blossoms.

Something else that's interesting is the potato crop this year. For a number of years the Pennsylvania Cooperative Potato Growers, Inc., have sponsored the 400-bushel Potato Club. This contest is the oldest agricultural production club in the nation.

Bob Weaver from Garland called and asked me to come down and check the yield of one of their fields. So a week ago Monday, Bob, Gary Troyer, a lady on the potato harvester, and I carefully measured and weighed potatoes from four different areas in the field. We came up with an amazing 704 bushels per acre.

I sent the form to Penn State and to my sorrow discovered that to be an official entry we had to dig one-tenth of an acre. The new form we used wasn't set up for this number of feet. Anyway 704 bushel of potatoes per acre is a fine yield even if it's not eligible for the contest. Next year we must use the proper check form.

One final interesting item for you hobby wine makers. The Limited Winery Act was passed during the current session of legislature as an amendment to the Pennsylvania Liquor Code. This act allows for the production and marketing of up to 50,000 gals. of wine under license. Right now grapes are being tested in Erie County to supply this new market. They already grow an awful lot of Concord grapes along the shore of Lake Erie and this new development could mean even more growth for grape producers.

I wonder if we couldn't start a vineyard or two on the edge of the Kinzua Dam?

Hints From Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

For many years we've kept a stick of butter in our refrigerator. We use this ONLY for toast.

When we put bread in the toaster, we get out that stick of butter and open the wrapper a little.

When the hot toast pops up, we rub the butter over it.

We get an even coating of butter over our warm toast, and . . . don't dirty a knife.

Mrs. K. B.

Now aren't you the greatest? I say, "Yes Ma'am," to that!

I tore off a little of the wrapper on the end of a stick of oleo and rubbed a thin coat of it on a hot piece of toast. You are right, I got the nicest thin coating of oleo without even mashing the bread.

This is great for those who don't like their toast to be soggy, or shouldn't eat too much butter.

As the oleo is used up, just peel off some more wrapping.

Orchids to you, my dear.

Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

I stick a strip of adhesive tape all along the top of my roller-type window shades where it is attached to the roller. Then staple or tack the tape and shade back on the roller.

Now if the shade is accidentally unrolled too far, it will not tear off the roller.

Milton Sussman

DEAR HELOISE:

Just had a "brain-storm" that I must share!

Let your kindergarten child pick a different colored crayon for each friendly neighbor that he might stay with in your absence.

Have him watch while you print each name on a small piece of paper. Then explain to him that if you are not home, he's to go to one of these neighbor's home. He'll know which one by the name and color taped to the door handle.

Of course, before you run that errand, or go shopping or whatever, you'll always check with that particular neighbor to be sure she's going to be home.

Mrs. Wm. Alexander

DEAR HELOISE:

I work in a restaurant. When they do any breadings of fish, chops or vegetables with cracker crumbs, they roll a package of crackers real fine, add one-fourth to one-third cup of flour and mix them together real good.

Then bread the meat by pressing it into the crumb-and-flour mixture and shaking off the excess.

Handles easy without any muss.

I make this breading mixture all the time at home and keep it on hand. Saves buying cracker crumbs already prepared, and is far less expensive.

A Friend

Try this in your blender, folks. Use NO SALT. That's already on the crackers, remember?

Jamestown TV Station is Feature in Toronto Paper

BY FRANKLIN R. HOFF

Warren readers of the popular STAR WEEKLY published by the Toronto, Ontario, Star, which enjoys a large circulation in this region, were somewhat surprised to read in the Canadian Panorama section of the magazine's October 18, 1968 issue a story about Jamestown, N. Y. TV station WNYP. Headed: "Yanks lap up Canadian TV," and carrying the Jamestown station's trade mark, it is an account of WNYP-TV's programming of telecasts from CFTO-TV in Toronto.

"Come fall, most Canadians look to the U.S. to see what the new TV season offers," the article states. "In Jamestown, N.Y., (Population 75,000), it's precisely the other way around. They are speculating about the new programs from Canada. In Jamestown, people know all about Canadian football, and Pierre Elliott Trudeau is very big."

The article goes on to tell about Lowell W. Paxson last June having an inspiration about adding Canadian telecast programs to his station's repertoire. He had opened WNYP-TV the previous November. Buffalo TV stations were already serving Jamestown with the three major U.S. network programs, so Paxson decided to put up a huge antenna and pick up the signal from some Canadian station. "It seemed like piracy," the STAR story continues, "but he went to Toronto and tried the idea on John Bassett, owner of station CFTO-TV, who reasoned that a little extra audience wouldn't hurt."

Some NBC, CBS and ABC programs from the U.S. are telecast over the Toronto station, and when these appeared on WNYP-TV in Jamestown, "... they were mad. Finally CBS took Paxson to court, and in August Paxson backed down, cut out the U.S. programs and ran movies in their place. But he still shows the Canadian program."

Not a few Warren, Pennsylvania, TV fans have found Jamestown's WNYP-TV's Canadian programming a welcome change from sameness of much of network programming. Precedent is in the discovery over the years of quality radio programming throughout Canada, in contrast to the bedlam that marks so much U.S. radio fare.

With WNYP-TV's Canadian telecasts, Warren viewers have an extra choice—and a novelty menu of programs that are somewhat foreign, even if Canada is just over the border.

Incidentally, WNYP-TV viewers have many of them become fans of Canada's new premier Pierre Elliott Trudeau—who is something of a swinger as politicians go—and obviously catnip to the younger voters among our cousins to the north.

Church News Notes

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE—“Blessed is the man that endureth temptation: for when he is tried, he shall receive the crown of life, which the Lord hath promised to them that love him.”

This verse from James is part of the Bible Lesson-Sermon titled PROBATION AFTER DEATH to be read in all Christian Science churches this Sunday.

One of the related passages to be read from the denominational textbook is the following: “During the sensual ages, absolute Christian Science may not be achieved prior to the change called death, for we have not the power to demonstrate what we do not understand. But the human self must be evangelized. This task God demands us to accept lovingly today, and to abandon so fast as practical the material, and to work out the spiritual which determines the outward and actual.” (Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy)

You are cordially invited to attend the services at First Church of Christ, Scientist, 11:00 a.m.

REV. LYNN A. BERGMAN

Here I Stand!

By Rev. Lynn A. Bergman, Pastor First-Salem United Methodist Church

We will be reminded of the Reformation this weekend. We will draw special attention to men like Luther, Huss, Zwingli and others. These were a select group of Christians but then the church and the world have always waited for men like these. They are the kind of men who will die for an idea if needs be. They are the kind who, when backed up against an easy way out, have said in one way or another, "Yes, it would be easier that way but I don't believe in it. I will stand for my belief. I cannot do anything different." This is always refreshing in a day of constant compromise of ideals.

Sometimes stubbornness goes under the guise of conviction. Sometimes we just don't want to look. A man once said, "Don't give me the facts, it might spoil my prejudices." There are many occasions when we have made blocks when we do not want to consider another side.

If we are to meet the world there are some tasks that must be done to keep our faith up-to-date. We must look back on the vows we have made in our lifetime, and review them. We must create an interest in others around us. We must consider the value of things in the light of a total life. We must get out of our ruts.

Where do you stand? If there is no answer forthcoming you have a real job to be done. Christ provides through his word a way to find things worth standing for and on.

Old RR Grads and Recreation

While thousands of motorists were crowding the highways last Sunday for a final glimpse of the fading fall coloring, twenty-four hikers from the Allegheny Outdoor Club took a five-mile walk along the old DAV & P Railroad grade.

We stepped onto the old railroad grade at a dirt highway crossing one mile south of Garland. Old unused grades that I had hiked over in the past still had most of the ties in place, or if they had been lifted the depressions where they had rested for so many years were still there. In either case, walking was difficult because ties were never spaced for the convenience of the hiker. They were spaced too far apart to take in stride two at a time, and too close together to take one at a time. On the DAV & P grade, all ties had been removed and the surface had been smoothed over.

One distinct advantage to hiking along an old railroad grade is that it doesn't tax the older hikers who may have weak hearts or other infirmities. The small children who participate in this family-style hiking have no difficulty keeping up with their elders either. One disadvantage, though, is the lack of sinuosity in the typical railroad grade. It is the series of sharp curves that makes hiking trails and back-woods roads a delight to hike over as each bend ahead gives promise of a new vista.

The section of old railroad grade chosen for last Sunday's hike followed Caldwell Creek. This little stream, swelled by recent rains, gave off a pleasant sound as it rushed seaward.

The absence of killing frosts at this time of the year had Nature all confused. Some plants must have felt that the millennium was here. Wild strawberry was in bloom, and so was thistle, aster, Queen Ann's lace, the ubiquitous dandelion, golden rod, and the common daisy. Strangest of all, in this mixed up world of Nature, was the abundance of both ripe and unripe red raspberries along the edge of the grade. I had never picked red raspberries in late October before. Old Joe Pye-Weed had sense enough to know that winter was coming. Only his brown, shriveled remains stood watch over swamp and meadow.

The children in our group and they made up about half of the hikers—were fascinated by the abundance of ripe milkweed pods with their treasure of white silken parachutes. Soon we were surrounded with hundreds of these tiny parachutes—each holding aloft a flat, brown seed—as the children wafted them into the air with their breath.

Much of the grade passed through swampy land with alder thickets that reminded me of the vast expanse of alders that I had struggled through in Canada. Willow shrubs and cat tails were abundant in the marshland. The most conspicuous shrub in the swampy stretches was winterberry—a deciduous holly with great masses of handsome scarlet berries. One shrub in full bloom that knew its proper season to flower was the witch hazel. As is its custom, it had shed all its leaves before flowering and had clothed itself with a profusion of odd spidery—looking yellow flowers. Normally, this is about the only shrub in the forest that blooms in late October and early November—a time when the leaves have fallen from most of the hardwood trees. We passed scores of witch hazel shrubs in full bloom on our hike. Like the little June Berry trees which flaunt their white blossoms before leafing out, witch hazel shrubs are only conspicuous when the flowering stage appears.

The first evidence of beaver that we saw was the recently flooded bottom land bordering the railroad grade. Live trees and shrubs were standing in a good depth of water, but had not yet been killed by flooding. Red and gold maple leaves decorated the surface of the pond.

Then we spotted some aspen trees that had been felled and debarked by beaver. The stumps, which came to a rough point, looked as though they had been cut with a stone axe. There was a little pile of fresh chips beside each stump. Farther on were freshly peeled aspen limbs floating on the pond. Suddenly we encountered the beaver dam. It had been cunningly fitted to the sloping side of the railroad embankment on one end. The other end of the dam was firmly anchored to solid shoreline on the other side of the little stream. The dam, consisting of brush, sticks and mud, was about four feet high and an engineering masterpiece.

We weren't as lucky as the hikers from Titusville who saw a beaver at work on the dam. Perhaps there were too many of us and we made too much noise. But then it is a rare thing to catch a beaver at work.

The Allegheny Outdoor Club members hope to develop the section of the old DAV & P Railroad grade between Irvine and East Titusville as a "recreation route" for cyclists, hikers and snowmobile enthusiasts. This is a worthy venture that deserves a lot of support. I can hardly wait until spring arrives so that I can hike over more of the route. The possibilities for the bird watcher, the amateur botanist, and all who love Nature are limitless in that most exciting time of the year—spring. But the old railroad grade also offers year round recreation with the snowmobile enthusiasts taking over in the winter time.

Post-Election Strategy

WASHINGTON—Richard Nixon, looking ahead to the possibility that a three-way division of the votes on November 5 may throw the election into the House of Representatives, has worked out his post-election strategy with his usual thoroughness.

It would cause a bad public reaction, he feels, if he made any deal with the extremist candidate George Wallace. Some aides have suggested that he bypass Wallace and make a direct appeal to all electors, who are not bound by law to vote for the candidate to whom they pledged. These aides have urged that Nixon use his ambassador to the South, Sen. Strom Thurmond, to dicker with the Wallace electors.

However, the Republican candidate has also rejected this proposal. Any backstage bartering of the presidency, he believes, would be resented by the voters. Therefore he has decided to make an appeal to the House delegations to cast their votes strictly according to the popular vote in each state if electors give no one a majority.

If the election should wind up in the House, the Constitution allows each state one vote. There is an excellent chance that Nixon will win a majority of states in the popular vote but that the Democrats may keep control of the House. This would mean that the Democrat-dominated House delegations could give Hubert Humphrey a majority.

Nixon intends to appeal to the House delegations to lay aside politics and cast each state's vote for the candidate who won that state's popular vote. Since Nixon is expected to win the popular vote in most states, particularly the less populous Midwestern and Rocky Mountain States, this solution would almost certainly give him the victory.

Note: If Nixon is upset over the foot-in-mouth troubles of his running mate Spiro Agnew, the GOP candidate has given no hint of it to Agnew. Not once has Nixon complained to his running mate, even by implication, over the way he is running his end of the campaign. Surprisingly no tension at all has disrupted the Nixon-Agnew relationship.

The Senate's most indefatigable junketeer, 78-year-old Sen. Allen Ellender, D-La., has taken off for Russia and points east after firing a parting broadside at this column.

Our report that the taxpayers had subsidized his amateur movies, he said, was "totally false." The Senator likes to record his overseas adventures on film, and he lugs his trusty Bell and Howell wherever he wanders around the world. We had reported that the taxpayers had been stuck with the bill for his movie-making.

It now appears that we owe Sen. Ellender an apology or, to be precise, one-fifth of an apology. He reimbursed the Senate Recording Studio, and he has the checks to prove it. Although this is information both his office and the Senate studio

New York Problem

Concerning the mess in the New York schools a few comments:

1. The desirability of decentralization is not subverted by what has happened. But what has happened requires us to give hard thought to the limitations of decentralization. Because, incredibly, the behavior of the administrators of the Ocean Hill-Brownsville school complex suggests that there are those who believe that decentralization ought to give to school administrators the right to launch revolutionary guerrilla institutes.

Consider the following episode. Teacher Leslie J. Campbell is conducting a class in Junior High School 271, the focal point of the dispute. A boy from another school has been invited to participate in the class. The boy's name is Timmy Karman.

Campbell: Now, class, ask Timmy questions about our Afro-American heritage and black power.

Buckley

Pupil 1: We have leaders like Martin Luther King, and he tells us to be peaceful, and then we have leaders like Malcolm X and Rap Brown and they tell us to use violence. Who is right?

Campbell: Timmy, tell him what you learned.

Timmy: Well, I think Martin Luther King is not so good. Whitey don't want to give us anything, so we got to fight for it.

Pupil 2: Why do we have to fight? Why can't we just demonstrate peacefully like Dr. King?

Campbell: Whitey doesn't listen. The only thing he understands is when we get up and start throwing bricks and Molotov cocktails.

It is by no means clear that to teach the virtues of class hatred or the necessity of using Molotov cocktails is a part of anyone's freedom in a free society. It would seem to be clear at least that public schools should not countenance the teaching of any such thing, and that the likelihood is that the Negro community of Brooklyn is either unaware that that kind of thing is happening, or powerless to do anything about it, or else intimidated by the local black militants, whose contempt for the mass of the black community exceeds anything we have seen in America since the days of the slavemasters.

2. The Jews of New York are inflamed by what is happening, but their anger is only one part justified. It is altogether justified by the arrant anti-Semitism of the black militants who are cultivating genocidal passions. Consider an excerpt from a single leaflet widely distributed in Brooklyn:

"It is impossible for the Middle East murderers of colored people to possibly bring to this important task the insight, the concern, the exposing of the truth that is a must if the years of brainwashing and self-hatred that has been taught to our black children by those bloodsucking exploiters and murderers is to be overcome."

Any race, any religion, is entitled to protection against such as that. But the Jewish cause in New York suffers from its identification with the altogether materialist concerns of the United Federation of Teachers, whose leader Mr. Albert Shanker thought nothing a year ago of striking down the entire city school system illegally in order to extract from the City a wage raise.

It is irrelevant to maintain that the teachers deserved the raise. The salient consideration is that a union of teachers which now deplores disorder and the unlawful behavior of the administrators of the Ocean Hill schools, should have so insouciantly struck first a year ago, and again now. If the strike was in protest against the offensiveness of the new curriculum at the Ocean Hill schools, one might feel a moral sympathy for it. But although it may be on its way to becoming that, it began as a protest against the firing of UFT teachers in that district. Those teachers could have been retired for life at far less cost than the strike has thus far exacted on New York's teachers and on the city and on the parents.

3. The City needs then to devise an enforceable code establishing limits beyond which teachers may not go. The City should guarantee appropriate jobs for teachers who are replaced by professionally qualified local teachers in the black districts.

refused to furnish when we first asked for the facts, we are now happy to set the record straight.

The taxpayers, however, cannot take too much comfort; they are still stuck with paying the overhead. Not only do they provide the facilities and furnish the equipment at the Senate Recording Studio, but they also pay all the salaries.

Insiders claim that Senators can get their film work done at the Senate for one-fifth what a commercial studio would charge them. This is strictly an estimate because it is impossible to get the actual figures out of anyone in the Senate.

Charlie Jones, who runs the Senate Recording Studio, explained simply: "This is the Senators' business."

We suggested it was also the taxpayers' business. He acknowledged that his salary was paid by the taxpayers, but he refused to divulge even how much he is paid. All information, he said, would have to come from the Senate Rules Committee.

At the Rules Committee we were referred to Mrs. Marian Moore, who said that only the Sergeant-at-Arms could release the information. Sergeant-at-Arms Robert Dunphy insisted he couldn't talk and referred us back to the Rules Committee.

As for Ellender's hobby of filming amateur travelogues, the Senate recording studio used to process all his films. Then he decided to turn his films into major productions, complete with editing, splicing and a narration in his own voice. It was more than the Senate Studio could handle.

As Senate Agriculture chairman, Ellender was aware that the Agriculture Department had set up a miniature Hollywood which handles movie-making for most of the federal agencies. He soon put them to processing his home movies.

The Agriculture Department is anxious to please and placate the Senate Agriculture chairman, but there were regulations against doing personal work for individuals. The Department got around this by billing the Senate Recording Studio, which in turn collected from Ellender.

"This is an entirely normal undertaking," insisted Ellender.

It may be normal for the Senate Agriculture chairman—but no other individual has ever been able to arrange with the Agriculture Department for its motion picture professionals to edit and process personal films.

Meanwhile Ellender is back on the sight-seeing circuit, his Bell and Howell at the ready. Before his departure he purchased 200 film packs through the government—at the one-third government discount. He reimbursed the government, however, out of his own pocket. It should also be reported in fairness that Ellender has made the travelogues available to schools in his native Louisiana.

These are the full facts, as far as we have been able to dig them out, on Allen Ellender and his amateur movies.
